Three Vehicles In Crash Near City

A three-vehicle smash-up on the wrecked car but was only the Vernon Road near Benvoulin dazed. His companion was shot into the back of the car when the cars being totally destroyed—but its two occupants escaped with only slight injuries. The other two vehicles, a trailer truck and another car were only slightly damaged.

One of the injured men was Jerry Smith, 18, of Centennial Cres., Kelowna, and the other man is reported to be a Mr. Marceau, also of Kelowna.

The accident occurred about 5 p.m. Friday as the small European car driven by Mr. Marceau, en route to Kelowna, sideswiped the parked trailer truck on the side of the highway, bounced into the opposite lane and was struck by a third vehicle.

Mr. Smith was thrown clear of

THEIR GREETINGS ARE TRULY MUTUAL

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Thirty-six years ago Robert Wilson mailed a friend in Philadelphia a Christmas card. The greeting ended with: "An' dinna ye forget to return it."

Vic Clark, Wilson's Philadelphia friend didn't. The next year he mailed Wilson the same card. The next Christmas Wilson mailed it back. And the next Christmas...

This year Wilson got it again. It's now enclosed in plastic and insured for $10. Wilson, now 66 and a retired Los Angeles policeman, says of the card: "It looks like it'll outlast both of us."

Explosion Kills 2

BOSTON (AP)—A fiery explosion wrecked a cafe and levelled an adjoining three-story brick building today.

Two hours later the official toll stood at two dead and five injured. Fire Chief John Martin said there could be one or more bodies in the debris.

Five persons were taken to hospitals. One of these, the cafe owner, died shortly afterwards.

Father Held On Beating Death Of Two-Year-Old

TORONTO (CP)—A two-year-old baby died Friday in his Toronto home of injuries inflicted by beatings over a period of several weeks, police said.

The child's stepfather, James Hilary Young, 21, was charged with murder.

Homicide detectives said the little boy died of a brain hemorrhage following beatings so bad that gangrene had set in. The boy's left arm was broken and the middle three fingers of the right hand were nerveless.

Police said the injuries were inflicted by hand, and with a stick and belt.

Young, an unemployed former employee of a rubber company, had been supported since October by the boy's mother who works as a sales clerk in a downtown department store. He married the

Baby For A Dionne Quint

MONTREAL (CP)—Marie Dionne Houle, one of the famous Dionne quintuplets, gave birth to a girl at 3:38 a.m. today.

The girl weighed five pounds, 13 ounces. Both mother and baby were reported doing fine at St. Justine's Hospital.

Busload Of Shoppers Saved By A 'Miracle'

Fifteen Injured In Rail Crossing Crash

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP)—A bus loaded with Christmas shoppers slammed into the side of a moving train at a level crossing on the outskirts of St. John's today. Fifteen bus passengers were injured, five of them severely.

Officials at the scene said it was a miracle nobody was killed when the Petty Harbor bus slid across the tracks into the path of the train.

The bus driver, James Clements, 28, was reported in critical condition. He was making his first trip as a substitute driver on a suburban run from Petty Harbor, six miles away.

John Lee Jr., driving another bus, reached the crossing a few minutes after the crash. He said Clements' bus apparently skidded on an icy grade approaching the crossing and slid into the side of the CNR train, a mixed passenger and freight.

The accident occurred at Wabigoon Bridge, about three miles west of St. John's, at the western city limits.

Snow early today had made streets and highways icy. Persons at the scene said the incline leading to the crossing was not sanded.

The bus was dragged about 50 feet before it came to a stop against a telephone pole. The vehicle was so badly smashed that witnesses said it was a miracle no one was killed. Some passengers, including a five-year-old boy, were trapped in the wreckage.

Travel conditions at the English Channel port of Ostende were chaotic as hundreds of foreign Yuletide travellers waited for strike-bound trains and boats.

The ferry from Ostende to Dover, England did not run this morning and many international trains were diverted around this country.

The cabinet, whose planned economic austerity measures triggered the widespread walkouts four days ago, met in emergency session to discuss reports of alleged sabotage plans against the railroads, most of them already strike-stalled.

A government official said strikers near Namur had placed large stones on the rail line just before an international express passed. The cabinet discussed plans to have soldiers guard all railroad grade crossings and bridges.

With the nation in a state of near-paralysis, Brussels power plant officials said they could not assure electricity supplies much longer unless the authorities issued a special decree limiting consumption. Only a few non-striker plants were running the generating plants and other installations.

Seven of the Pine Ridge's crew were lost when the ship broke in two Wednesday in heavy seas 100 miles east of Cape Hatteras. The other men—except Richard—arrived here Friday aboard a destroyer.

On the stern section with Richard were four men from the commercial tug Curb, which is towing the stern to Newport News, Va. Another tug, the Lamberts Point, and the United States coast guard cutter Cherokee remained alongside. The towing job is expected to take about 48 hours.

The const guard said it knows of no special provisions being put aboard the stern section to help the five men celebrate Christmas. But the Pine Ridge's galley is part of what's left of the ship, and there should be plenty of food aboard.

At Antwerp, where more than 100 ships are strikebound, anti-austerity strikers clashed with police after trying to damage postal trucks.

Officials were worried that picket lines might break out in Brussels where streets are littered with rubbish uncollected throughout the year in the past. There is one picture, not so far chosen, which must have made a haunting impact on all those who saw it.

It is of a little Negro girl of about six being escorted by a national guardman up a stair to a school in New Orleans.

The newspaper said the child was an innocent symbol of dreary life in an inner world and should be singled out because she moved countless people to compassion.

The Seeman said: "Once again the American magazine 'Time' is busily engaged in selecting its man of the year, an annual sport in which its readers participate with their varied nominations."

"Crowded at the bottom of the stair is a horrid mob of white teenagers, shaking their fists at the national guardman and taunting the child stepping through the portals of non-segregated learning for the first time."

"To any child it must be a solemn experience to go to school for the first time. It is an event which generally takes place in an atmosphere of love, kindness and excitement."

"But this little girl is facing a terrifying experience. Instead of being surrounded with affection and tenderness, she is confronted by rage and hysteria, simply because of the color of her skin. But, scared though the expression in her eyes is, she trends the steps with grace and dignity."

"Her picture must have stirred the hearts of countless people, and at this, of all times, when our thoughts go back to the manger in Bethlehem, the child will be picked as the child of the year."

Christmas

"And when they were come into the house, they saw the young Child with Mary His mother, and fell down, and worshipped Him; and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts, gold, and frankincense, and myrrh." As one the night when the wise men found the place where He was, may the story of the first Christmas bring to us wonder and joy ever new. And may His message, heard again in song and story, give to all of us the great gifts of spiritual joy, eternal hope and promise.

The Management and Staff extend to all their friends and business associates sincere greetings for a happy holiday season.

Surviving Seamen Will Be Home At Christmas

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Twenty-eight surviving seamen from the storm-wrecked tanker Pine Ridge were at home with their loved ones today or on their way.

Only chief engineer John Richard, the 29th survivor, faced a not-so-merry Christmas as he remained aboard the stern section of the broken vessel at sea. Seven of the Pine Ridge's crew were lost when the ship broke in two Wednesday in heavy seas 100 miles east of Cape Hatteras. The other men—except Richard—arrived here Friday aboard a destroyer.

HIGHWAYS CASE

Contempt of Court Man Released From Oakalla

VANCOUVER (CP)—An American contractor, held in Oakalla prison since Oct. 19 for contempt of court, was freed today.

Clyde W. Thornton of Troy, Mont. was found guilty, along with British Columbia highways minister F. A. Cagliardi, who was fined $1,000 in the action.

The contempt conviction was obtained against Thornton and his former company, Union Contractors, by Burton Glazier of Seattle, who had loaned money to the company.

The proceedings were started against Thornton for allowing Union's bank at Bonner's Ferry, Idaho, to receive a highways department cheque for $75,000 of which $25,000 should have gone to a receiver appointed by the court.

In making application for release from jail, Thornton testified earlier this week that he had no assets and gave no bond of performance when awarded a $750,000 road-building contract.

Mystery Stabbing Of Boy Aged 14

NEW YORK (AP)—A 14-year-old boy delivering a Christmas tree was mysteriously stabbed to death Friday night on the top floor of a six-story upper Manhattan apartment house.

The victim, Robert Glutari, had been stabbed in the shoulder and chest. A sheath for a hunting knife was found, but not the death weapon.

Police said Robert had an excellent reputation and had been in no trouble. The two 25-cent pieces he had been paid to deliver the tree still were in his pocket.

MAYOR SAYS:

All Best For Yule Season

VERNON (Staff) — A wish for a "joyous and prosperous" Christmas and New Year has been extended by Mayor F. F. Becker.

The mayor added he was confident the city would enjoy unprecedented progress in the coming year because of the Columbia River power development, Winter Carnival and other prospects for 1961. Among highlights of the new year will be the spring convention here of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

There is also a note of caution in the mayor's annual greeting. "Joyful celebrations are quite in order at this season of the year as long as they are not at the price of a human life," the city's chief magistrate states.

"Moderation in all things applies more than ever and can only help make gatherings of family and friends more enjoyable," he observed.

A heavy responsibility weighs on those who place the lives of their guests in danger by serving them large quantities of alcoholic beverages, Mayor Becker notes.

The mayor has also appealed to citizens to spread another type of Christmas cheer. "Be as generous as you can in giving, let us the more fortunate, help the unfortunate who through no fault of their own may spend a cheerless Christmas."

FIRE HAZARD OF CHRISTMAS TREE

VERNON (Staff) — Take the Christmas tree outside as soon after Dec. 25 as possible.

That's the advice of Fire Chief Fred Little.

Dec. 26 is recommended by the U.S. National Fire Protection Association. This is particularly applicable in larger cities where trees offered for sale were cut in November, Mr. Little noted. However, it is unwise, under any circumstances, to keep a tree indoors for more than a week.

Another warning: Don't set up electric lights and other electric toys under a Christmas tree. One spark could ignite it, according to fire prevention experts.

Visit From Santa For Sick Children

VERNON (Staff) — Christmas lights will sparkle color in sleepy eyes. Little soft yawns will turn into smiles.

Christmas Eve, children in Vernon Jubilee Hospital will know Santa will find their stockings, too.

Hospital officials said that although most children will be allowed to go home for Christmas Day, the others will also have a happy time.

Girl Guides have decorated the children's ward with bright Christmas ornaments, and there will be gifts under the tree.

Traders To Hold Banquet, Dance

VERNON (Staff) — The annual installation banquet and dance of Vernon Board of Trade will be held Jan. 13. The event begins at 7 p.m. at The Roundup.

Those installed will be president-elect Peter Seaton, vice-president Lionel H. Mercer and 1961 directors John Klippenberger, Stuart H. Muirhead, George Melvin, A. K. Allen, Harold Down, Don McMillan and Stu Mitchell.

Glazier's lawyer said: "I don't suppose we will ever see again such a classic example of locking the barn door after the horse is stolen."

VANCOUVER (CP)—Highways Minister Glazier said Friday night the people of B.C. "have not lost a nickel" as a result of arrangements between his department and a Montana contractor which were questioned Friday by a B.C. Supreme Court judge.

Mr. Glazier said in a statement contractor Clyde W. Thornton had made the normal deposit required by the department when he made a bid for a highway job which was later accepted.

He said he would be glad to have a royal commission inquire as demanded by Liberal leader Ray Perrault.

'Baby' Budget Hardly Affects Stock Market

It was budget week on the Canadian scene this week but on the stock market it was hardly felt as the annual year-end rally had begun almost two weeks beforehand.

The industrial index showed an increase of almost six points on the week with the biggest gains—slightly more than five points—recorded two days before the so-called "baby budget" was brought down in the commons.

One encouraging item was a report that dividend payments by Canadian companies this year will be the highest record in history, amounting to more than $700,000,000—a gain of 4.6 per cent over the previous high.

The industrial rally—which seems to be almost an annual year-end event based on the hopes that the forthcoming new year will be one of prosperity—caught the other sections of the market and pulled them along. Basic metals had a relatively good week with most senior issues showing minor gains. Golds were uncertain but still clung to the upside.

Western oils recorded a two point index gain mainly on the strength of advancing pipeline and refining oil.

Index changes at Toronto: Industrial index 5.75 at 518.89; gold, ahead 65 at 89.69; basic metals up 59 at 159.83; and western oils up 2.20 at 81.81.

Churchgoers At Vernon Hear Christmas Carols

ARMSTRONG (Correspondent) — Christmas music was enjoyed by residents here at a concert presented by the junior and senior choirs of Zion United Church.

The choir entered the church to the strains of White Shepherds Watched Their Flocks By Night. Organist was Mrs. Harold F. North.

Dr. L. B. Campbell welcomed the congregation, which was well-represented, and gave a reading from Psalm 98. He then introduced two choral numbers, When Christ In Bethlehem Was Born, sung by the senior choir, and Joy To The World and On The Night When Jesus Came by the junior choir.

The theme of the next two carols, Let Your Saviour In and Oh Little Town of Bethlehem by the senior choir, was reflected in readings from Micah and Luke.

Following readings from Matthew and Isaiah, the senior choir sang Unto Us A Child Is Born and the junior choir sang Silent Night.

ANGELIC HOST — Dr. Campbell read from Luke telling of the joy of the angels and the joy of the shepherds following which the senior choir sang Angels Came From Highest Heaven, It Came Upon A Midnight Clear, Hark In The Stillness and Lo, There Is Born A Saviour.

Next, the junior choir sang The First Nowell after which the congregation joined in singing Hark The Herald Angels Sing.

Following an organ solo by Mrs. North and a vocal solo, Holy Night by Mrs. R. A. Pridham, Dr. Campbell gave a reading from Matthew describing the joy of the Magi. The senior choir then sang The March of the Three Kings, and We Three Kings of Orient Are.

The senior choir's final numbers Good Christian Men Rejoice and Oh Come All Ye Faithful were preceded by readings from Isaiah and Philipians.

Lighted candles on the communion table provided the only illumination for the singing of the Lord's Prayer, and the benediction pronounced by Dr. Campbell.

Vernon Roads In Good Condition

VERNON (Staff) — Roads in the Vernon district are in good travelling condition today, the Department of Highways reports.

Ice and snow, which accumulated earlier this week has disappeared on Highway 97 south, and the roads north are also fairly dry.

The Monashee road has been plowed and sanded. However, chains are required. Sanding has been completed on the Vernon-Cherryville road which is also described as being in "good condition."

Rapid Progress Is Made In Construction Of Bank

ENDERBY (Correspondent) — Rapid progress has been made on the new Bank of Montreal building, now being erected on Cliff Street.

Contract for the new premises was awarded to Douillard Construction Ltd. It is hoped the building will be completed early in May.

The new bank will feature a streamlined counter, which will have accommodation for three teller windows set in low screens.

The building was designed by Vancouver architects Thompson, Berwick and Pratt. When the new structure is completed, the old premises will be demolished and the area used for parking space.

The first Enderby branch of the Bank of Montreal was opened in April, 1905, one month after the city charter was signed. It was located in a portion of the old King Edward Hotel, which was later destroyed by fire. The bank moved to its present location in 1910.

Harry Wood has been manager of the Enderby branch since 1956, when he moved here from Kelowna.

WHEN 'SANTA' GOT A THIRST ON

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—Six weary young women left the headquarters of the Danish Tourist Association today after answering more than 15,000 letters sent to Santa Claus from children all over the world.

The letters, addressed to "Santa Claus, Greenland," come in every year. Greenland is administered by Denmark.

One letter from a girl named Freda reminded Santa that last year she put a bottle of whisky up the chimney for him.

"I hope you enjoyed it. My father said you would enjoy a drink. The bottle was empty so you must have been very thirsty."

Glenmore School Pupils Presented Yule Program

A Christmas program was presented at the Glenmore Elementary School Tuesday evening with approximately 200 pupils on stage. Mrs. W. F. Morton, president of the Glenmore P.T.A., welcomed the parents.

The first number, Listen, Lordlings, Unto Me, was followed by a reading, Davey's First Christmas, by Emily Meek.

It was the story of a little boy Davey, whose father kept the inn at Bethlehem, and of his pet donkey.

Together they made a mischievous pair, who annoyed the innkeeper until, in desperation he finally sent them out to clean the stable, in order to be rid of them.

It was they, according to the story, who witnessed the first Christmas and received the blessing of Mary, who praised them for preparing the lowly stable for the holy birth.

As the story unfolded, the four shepherds in brown capes, three kings in robes of purple, red and gold, and six angels, all in white and silver, appeared before the Baby Jesus.

CAROL SINGING
The program which followed featured a number of carols, as well as choral speaking selections by the school as a group, and as individual divisions.

A new Canadian, Lucy Zlatich, sang a Yugoslavian Christmas carol, Radujte Narod, and was so well received that she returned to sing her country's version of Silent Night. Her voice showed remarkable sweetness, strength and emotion for a girl of her age.

The three kings portrayed by Kurt Snook, Peter Turgoose, and Lorne Pearson sang individually in clear true voices. The part of Mary was taken by Trudy Linenko, Joseph by Richard King, Davey by Donald Johnson and the shepherds by Harold Simkins, Leonard Reimer, Ladd Snowsell, and Douglas Mullins.

The angels were Susan Hillian, Laura Gray, Darla Johnson, Kathy Lane, Jennifer Burtch, and Linda Stranaghan. Emily Meek, as the reader, spoke in a clear strong voice which reached the farthest corners of the large activity room.

Miss Judith Myrtle, division 5 teacher, did a marvellous job as director. It was apparent that she had spent much time in training the pupils who gave a fine performance. The true meaning of Christmas was personified throughout the program, showing the Bethlehem scene in its humble simplicity.

At the close of the program, Mrs. Morton thanked the teachers and pupils for the evening's entertainment and welcomed Santa Claus who arrived with a hearty chuckle.

The pre-school children were first to be received by him, as he chatted with each in turn and reached into his big sack for a bag of candies, nuts and a Japanese orange for each of them.

YOUTHS ARRESTED
BURNABY (CP)—RCMP have arrested two 16-year-old boys and believe a wave of vandalism in Burnaby schools may be ended. The youths were charged with breaking and entering and theft. They were picked up after $500 malicious damage was caused to a Burnaby school. The boys' father, did a marvellous job as director. ## Fire Chief Advises How to Avert Holiday Tragedy

Christmas is a wonderfully happy time of the year—but without care it can quickly become a time of tragedy.

Fire Chief C. A. Pettman said today that if everyone used a "little more horse sense we could eliminate this problem of Christmas and holiday fires."

Last year, said the Fire Chief, was the first year of many in which there were no Christmas tree fires to mar the spirit of the festive season.

He urged the public to make sure that this trend was continued this year and in the future.

Giving his advice on how to prevent fires, Chief Pettman said one of the most important things was never to leave the house without turning off the Christmas tree lights.

"Even leaving the room," he said, "can prove dangerous."

One method he said that would help prevent a Christmas tree fire is to cut and emerse the base of the stem in water.

SAFETY SPRAY
Another safety measure is a spray composed of water, boric acid and borax. This should be applied to the tree as soon as it is placed in the home.

If a fire does start in the tree, the spray will slow it down and make it easier to control.

Electric trains, said the chief, should not be placed under the tree nor should they be left unattended while connected. In the past they have started fires when tinsel fell across the charged tracks.

Another point to remember are the Christmas wrappings. If in the past burning wrappings these are all stuffed into a garbage can or fireplace at once, they often are sucked right up the chimney, still burning.

George Elliot Juniors In Move To Wake Up Santa

The annual Christmas concert by children of the Winfield Elementary School was well received by a large audience when it was presented in the auditorium of George Elliot Junior-Senior High School, recently.

Wayne Taiji was master of ceremonies for the evening which saw grades one to three present a skit entitled Santa Sleeps. The plot had elves, toy soldiers, fairy dolls and others dressed at Santa napping, lest he was late for Christmas deliveries.

Grade six presented Homework, a one-act play in which one member of a family manages to induce the rest to do her, fit's a girl homework while she goes out for the evening.

Biggest thrill of the night for the children, was the arrival of Santa Claus who gave each child a bag of candy and nuts.

Oyama Legion Accrued $244 By Poppy Drive

OYAMA — The regular monthly meeting of Oyama Branch 189 Canadian Legion was held in the club rooms last Wednesday evening.

President B. F. Baker welcomed B. Crooks who was a guest for the evening. The question of financial support for the proposed zone holiday camp for Older Veterans was again fully discussed and the decision to not support the venture was upheld.

Final results of the branch poppy campaign were available and they indicated a small increase in receipts over last year.

A total of $244 from the districts of Winfield, Okanagan Centre and Oyama was accrued and this money is to be placed in the branch welfare account to assist needy veterans and their families.

Secretary B. Crooks was instructed to write MP Stewart Fleming to thank him for keeping the branch up to date on the proposed pension increases which will be dealt with in the House of Commons in the near future.

TO PARTIES—$70
A total of $70 was voted to be distributed for children's Christmas parties in the three districts and the Ladies Auxiliary have contributed $15 toward this amount.

A proposal to dispose of the billiard table met with considerable opposition, but it was finally decided that if $500 could be realized for it, it should be sold.

The next regular meeting of the branch will be on January 11 at 8 p.m. The February meeting will be the annual meeting and election of officers for 1961.

Approximately 100 members and guests attended the Annual Christmas Social held in the club rooms last Friday evening.

Numerous prizes in attendance received useful prizes with R. Stewart winning the grand prize of a pair of pastel wool blankets.

Refreshments were served by the Ladies Auxiliary under the direction of president Mrs. G. Parker.

I Bring You Good Tidings

Luke 2:10: I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people.

What would happen if a message such as this were suddenly received from outer space in these days?

It would certainly cause great excitement! It would be flashed around the world in a matter of minutes and people everywhere would be deeply concerned to know its origin and its meaning.

Such a message was actually received and duly recorded! And although it took place a long time ago the significance of that message is not destroyed by the lapse of time especially since many people have not found time in the headlong pace of their lives to ponder its significance.

So let us look at this statement for a moment! A startling thing about it is that it is a promise of the attainment of the goal for which millions today are frantically searching—the finding of happiness, the pursuit of which the modern world considers to be the right of everyone.

It should be quite evident that this particular road to happiness has received scant consideration for most men seem sublimely confident that they are going to find happiness in their own way.

In this quest they have employed every conceivable form of self-indulgence, they have searched for it in every area of life and every place in the world and their pursuit of it has caused them to take possession for themselves of every kind of material thing. And when their goal has eluded them, they have searched more frantically than ever.

Having failed so miserably in all other ways it would seem the sensible thing to hear what the angels had to say about the matter!

Their message is clear! The finding of happiness and the coming of the Lord Jesus into one's heart belong together!

The formula for happiness is found in the Christmas story as recorded in the Gospels.

Great joy in the human heart springs from the practise of the deep piety which filled the hearts of Mary and Joseph, combined with the trust in God which led the Shepherds to the Infant Jesus and the dedication of one's life to the service of the King of Kings as demonstrated by the Wise Men when they knelt before the Holy Child in deep and loving homage.

The Christmas season has come into our hearts and lives once again. Which will it be?

The pursuit of happiness according to the ways of this world and finding it always out of reach or the receiving of the Lord Jesus into our hearts and finding exceeding great joy.—REV. C. A. WARREN, United Church, Peachland.

SOME CHRISTMAS THOUGHTS

A very merry Christmas to you. Good. We've gotten that far, which is something of an accomplishment because I'm in some difficulties at the moment.

This piece is necessarily being written ahead of publication, in the twinkling hours of preparation for the festive day, last minute shopping and that sort of thing.

By the time it is read the Courier readership ought to be in a thoroughly expectant mood for it will be Christmas Eve. Or, perhaps it, our readership, postponing its reading to Christmas Day, will be in a thoroughly somnolent mood induced by children's pre-dawn insistence on exploration of the Christmas tree, a morning of settling possessive quarrels, winding up toys, and, finally, by the great dinner.

Well, go have a nap then. I shall nevertheless pursue some thoughts which seem to me to be more or less appropriate to the day, and if the prose seems disjointed, blame the fact that I still have a round of the stores to make.

And, speaking of that, I might say that I'm becoming a little tired of these annual denunciations of Christmas commercialism. Apart from some boredom with the business of getting out a sufficient number of greeting cards to people who will hardly notice anyway, I am unable to feel unkindly towards the various forces of commerce who are competing to sell me the things I want to give my family and my friends.

And if I get myself into debt doing so, that's my business. The department stores with their Santa Claus images, the pretty shop window displays, the general emphasis on buying, don't bother me. I can buy or not, as I please, and I rather enjoy the Christmas hymns over the stores' public address systems. Those who find this use of the music sacrilegious (or almost) can wander off again to their desert mountain tops; this is our world.

and I am for it.

But there are still some things about the way this world is going that I do not like and maybe this is a good time to speak of some of them.

Few mind the great problems of the armaments race, the nuclear bomb and a divided world. Let the experts and statesmen go to work, hopefully, next year, only remembering that there are some stars in the sky that cannot be seen when you look at them directly; you must focus on something else in order to find them.

That is a physiological peculiarity of the human eye, which we seem to be suffering from spiritually. Right now the effect seems to have been exaggerated to include the moon.

The Soviets, having hit the moon, are now trying to land a man on it. The Americans are trying to do something equally spectacular. I'm not sure what. But why? What is so important about the problems of the moon, Venus, Mars or outer space generally, that compares to the urgency of the human problems of the earth?

We have starvation in the midst of food surpluses, disease in the face of known medical cure, overcrowding in comparison with vast open spaces, death conquering life every day. Space exploration is exciting, certainly, and dramatic. But there are other things that don't take off with a flaming blast of a rocket and they might be prouder achievements. Much less attention is paid to what is being done peacefully and so much more that might be done. I have a growing feeling that humanity is wasting its time dreadfully these years.

We have the imagination and the power to change the face of the earth. We could try all sorts of grandiose schemes for human betterment, and write most of them off as failures, for a fraction of the amount we are now spending in preparation to beat or burn each other's brains out.

ing in some way the personalities of the givers. A bundled up, small, square bulk in crumpled green paper, tied with red, can be nothing more than a cigarette from a small son to his father. A large box, sophisticated in its professional wrapping defines the art to which commercial interests have refined the season.

A neat envelope, crossed with green ribbon, speaks of the practical well-wisher who has enclosed the means by which a person may buy his or her own present.

There are long boxes, short boxes, square boxes, oval boxes. There are soft parcels with the feel of sweaters, socks, gloves. They all rest inviolate under the tree as very young people gaze on them and turn away reluctantly at parental orders to retire.

This is part of the material expression of Christmas in a country rich enough to place importance on such things and rich enough to gratify the wishes of loved ones. It is a piece with the trees that will be piled high for the feast. The people of a fortunate land follow the conventions that have grown up around the festival.

It is good that Canadian families can find this way of demonstrating affection for those close to them. Yet it is only one facet of Christmas.

More important must be the memory of the festival's origin, the inspiration given to the world by the miracle of the Child born in the manger.

We in Canada honor in small part only the message He brought when we restrict our giving to those we hold dear. He gave us the lesson in feeding the hungry, in helping the afflicted, in showing grace and generosity to the stranger.

As we sit to the table, asking a blessing, we are reminded of those who have no feast in prospect, no gift to call their own, no knowledge, in fact, of the faith on which the day of rejoicing is founded.

We observe the true spirit of Christmas only if we have pledged ourselves to help the less fortunate and honor that pledge now and in the days to come. Then may we know some measure of the satisfaction of Christian living and find significance in the Vision of St. Laurence—"who gives himself with arms feeds three—himself, his hungering neighbor and me."

rpm

And finally, I hope there is still space to wish readers a very Merry Christmas. This is the sincere wish of the family, the b.w., and myself.—rpm.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

HEATHMAN TRIAL

The Editor, Kelowna Daily Courier

Dear Sir:

The trial is over. Charles Heathman found guilty by a jury that no other evaluation has as yet of his peers of the murder of 11-year-old Donald Otley stands condemned to be hanged in March next.

Newspaper accounts of the proceedings and the evidence presented to the court by almost 40 witnesses was extensive. Unfortunately for the Crown, it seems to have been largely devoid of pertinent fact or pointed direction—more bones than meat—as it were.

No evidence of finger or foot prints seems to have been presented, no threads of the victim's clothing were found on the defendant, none of the defendant's on the victim.

Someone saw, or thought they saw, them go into the park an hour or two before the crime. Further than that no one saw anything pertinent, nor did the department of the accused indicate anything unusual to all who saw him then or later.

The uneasy citizen will also notice that, while the court scolded the prisoner for his life of crime it offered no comment on his Modus Operandi.

To the police, the sex criminal, the pervert, the molester of children, is always well-remembered by his M.O. Was this man Heathman ever charged with molesting woman or child?

The court did not so say, and again the public is forced to wonder why Heathman, after nineteen years of crime should, at the age of thirty-eight, suddenly be off in a new direction.

There are many doubts about these should be none. And this is lessened not at all by the fact that all this, grave doubt, where Heathman found guilty by a jury that no other evaluation has as yet of his peers of the murder of 11-year-old Donald Otley stands condemned to be hanged in March next.

According to the press, "day court were held to hurry proceedings so everybody could get home for Christmas." Perhaps "hurry" may have been why the defence attorney cut off the voice of his client by refusing to call him in the stand. In any case it was so done.

Someone has said: "Before you can have justice you must have truth." And as prominent barrister John Foster, Conservative British M.P., commented recently, at a meeting of the British section of the International Commission of Jurists: "... any system of criminal justice must strive for the truth, and who better to assist in arriving at the truth than the chief suspect?"

Should this and some other changes be effected Barrister Foster argues: "I think that the English criminal trial would be less of a game of contest and more of a serious inquiry as to the true nature of the crime and its perpetrator. That, should, at least, be the ideal toward which criminal justice should strive."

Yours truly, W. MORRISON

THE WEEK'S NEWS

U.S. Government Irked By Canada's 'Baby Budget'

By BOB EXELL

Canadian Press Staff writer

Canadian "baby budget" irks U.S.

United Nations General Assembly recesses without action on Congo, disarmament.

NATO summit in Ottawa turned down.

Aircraft carrier fire kills 49.

BABY BUDGET

The pre-Christmas budget brought down in the Commons by Finance Minister Fleming Tuesday night probably didn't surprise Canadian householders as much as U.S. government officials in Washington.

They winced so sharply that Canada may feel the pinch.

Fleming abolished the "special attractions and incentives" that had encouraged U.S. investors to push their cash into Canada.

He announced that Canadian firms will withhold a 15-per-cent tax instead of the former five per cent on all dividends paid to foreign stockholders. And interest received by non-residents on Canadian bonds will be taxed at 15 per cent.

Previously, the tax varied from nothing to five per cent, depending on the type of bonds.

In Washington, reaction was quick. The U.S. treasury department said the U.S. withholding tax on dividends of Canadian-controlled companies in the U.S. would be increased to 15 per cent from five.

IN THE DARK

Washington authorities had not been told of the steps being taken by the Canadian government because of budget secrecy rules. "What a nice Christmas present the Canadians have handed us," said one official.

Fleming's budget levied similar taxes on interest paid to non-residents from other sources. The budget also made a broader application of the higher tariff duties levied on goods of a class or kind made in Canada.

This also worried U.S. officials, since it could curtail some U.S. exports to Canada.

For the direct benefit of Canadians, Fleming removed the four-per-cent surtax on investment income from Canadian sources. The reason for the taxation changes, he indicated, was to reduce foreign investment in Canada with greater investment by Canadians.

Fleming's budget made no tax changes on liquor or tobacco. It did allow university students to deduct tuition fees when computing their income taxes.

UN ADJOURNS

The 16th General Assembly of the United Nations adjourned early Wednesday morning with little to look forward to when it re-assembles March 7. The assembly was docketed on varying ideas of what to do in The Congo and the matter was out over Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld said he would conduct the UN's 30,000-man force in The Congo as he had been doing all along.

The assembly was able to make up its mind at least on how to pay for the Congo operation. Overriding opposition by Russia, it set up a special account of $48,500,000 to pay the costs of the operation.

The question of disarmament also was put over until March. The Canadian delegation's attempt to get a vote on its disarmament proposal was turned down by the political committee.

Indian Defence Minister Krishna Menon charged that the Canadian resolution was "unrealistic." The proposal would have had the assembly's disarmament committee examine ways and means of bringing about renewed disarmament negotiations.

NATO AT OTTAWA?

The ministerial council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization ended its annual review conference at Paris last week-end by putting off any decision on two major proposals — a U.S. offer to supply NATO with nuclear-armed Polaris missiles, and a Canadian suggestion for a spring meeting of NATO heads of states in 1961.

GREEN'S NATO STINT

External Affairs Minister Howard Green, home from the NATO conference, chastised Britain and France for not cooperating wholeheartedly with the U.N. Apparently, Green clashed with Britain's foreign secretary, Lord Home, and France's Maurice Couve de Murville.

His disagreement with Lord Home also centred on colonialism. According to one report, Green told Home to sit down when Home insisted on interrupting him. The British foreign secretary sat down, according to the reports.

Early reports said a small fork lift truck aboard the aircraft carrier Constellation in the Brooklyn Naval Yard apparently sheared off a plug on a 500-gallon tank of jet fuel.

The liquid touched a welder's torch. Flames soon swept the interior of the mammoth carrier, killing 49 civilian workers.

FRIENDLY OVERTURE

Minister Andre Gromyko told the Supreme Soviet parliament Friday that Russia is hopeful of improving relations with the United States after the inauguration Jan. 20 of President-elect Kennedy.

WEEK IN THE WEST

Fire burned out of control in an almost-completed oil well in the rich Swan Hills field, 125 miles northwest of Edmonton. Three men suffered minor injuries and the $200,000 drilling rig was destroyed when the well blew wild Wednesday.

Home Oil company of Calgary, owners of the well, flew in a United States expert on taming wild wells. It was expected to take several days to bring the well under control.

Fifty children were heading home from classes for their Christmas vacation Wednesday when their school bus collided with a car near Weldon, Sask. Ken Daoust, 21, of Star City, Sask., driver of the car, was killed. Several children were shaken up but none was seriously injured.

Premier Bennett of British Columbia accepted Thursday an invitation from federal Finance Minister Fleming for a personal meeting to discuss financing of the Columbia River hydroelectric development. Last week Premier Bennett rejected the federal government's offer of $170,000,000 for hydro dam construction.

GREETINGS FROM THE NORTH

December paints the lake in subdued monochrome on these short days of winter.

The water is wrinkled steel. A solitary seagull roosts on the up-thrust end of a waterlogged dead-head, a silhouette of one dimension.

Planting logs are bleached, slumped on the surface. The wet sand gleams darkly, shading up to light brown near the bank. Driftwood, beached high above high water in departed summers, is tarnished silver.

A tired sun, offering brief benediction at dusk, spreads a thin path of pale gold on the water. On shore, fire and pines and hemlock stand sober sentinels, their sedate forms relieved by the almost hidden rubles of wild rose hips on leafless brush at their feet or the scarlet and green hollyhock foliage of the Oregon grape.

In formal white the whistler swims ride in our little bay in dignified elegance, while close to shore mallards, whose jewelled caplets shine brighter against the scene's prevailing grey, quack a loud reminder that it is the hour for them to be fed.

In from the north swing regiments of platoon of Canadian geese, banking their tidings and bringing greetings to shoreside homes where Christmas lights wink at the evening.

SO MUCH TO GIVE

The notes of carols and hymns linger in the air. The hall is decked with holly. The faces of children, keyed tight with excitement, radiate the happiness of the season. In the eyes of the week, carrier boy collecting every old dwells a light of inner content.

The gifts are piled under a tree glorious in colored lights and gay bangles. Within the parcels under the tree rest those secret prizes for which the child has waited so long.

They are gay parcels, reflect, single copy sales price, 5 cents

TEEN TOWN SWEETHEART CONTESTANTS

menters had a delightful tea in the Ogopogo Room of the Kelowna Arena. A delicious tea was provided by the Lions Ladies and graciously served by the girls to the three judges, wives of the city councillors, parents and guests. Miss Linda Thompson, reigning Sweetheart of Teen Town, introduced Mrs. Gordon Smith, Teen Town sponsor, who said a few words, then Linda introduced the contestants who each gave a short talk with considerable poise and charm, and finally Miss Valerie Deacon, our Lady-of-the-Lake, was introduced and spoke to the girls. The contest chosen will be crowned Teen Town Sweetheart of 1961 at midnight on Tuesday at the Snow Flake Fantasy Ball, and she will also be Teen Town's contestant for Lady-of-the-Lake and in the Provincial Teen Town contest.

CAROL SINGERS AT THE KELOWNA HOSPITAL

A hospital is hardly the place anyone would choose to spend their holiday, but last night the spirit of Christmas permeated the antiseptic hallways of the Kelowna General Hospital as the beautiful carols of the Pathfinders brought cheer to those who are missing so many sights and sounds of the happy season. The Pathfinders who might be described as the Seventh-day Adventist combined version of the Boy and Girl Scouts, last night were under the supervision of Dr. Drutt and Mr. Bob Kite, assistant director. Carol singing is only one of the projects of these young people. Recently they have completed courses in sewing for the girls and model airplane construction for the boys and after New Year's they will be taking up cooking and photography. The Pathfinders devised a unique form of the usual Halloween hi-jinks. Instead of the traditional "Trick or Treat" they collected canned goods which have now been added to the Christmas hampers which are being distributed by the ladies of the Dorcas Society. The boys and girls would like to thank all those who contributed these goods and wish you all a very Merry Christmas.

LAKEVIEW HEIGHTS

Last Sunday was a special Christmas occasion at the Westbank United Church when Mrs. C. Buzzell's choir sang for the Candlelight Carol service. The service was conducted by the Reverend Warren. The choir sang several anthems, Murray Hill played a violin solo; the trio consisted of Mrs. A. Seguss, Mrs. Buzzell and Mrs. Nan Gillis sang a beautiful solo "Sweet Little Jesus Boy". This is the eighth year Mrs. Buzzell has led the church choir and it has become, for the congregation and many visitors, a part of Christmas, to hear them sing. Lakeview Heights singers forming part of the choir are, Mrs. A. Seguss, Rita and Fern Wales, Susan Buzzell, Randy Gray, Lynn Seguss, Dorothy and Lisa Ratzlaff, Roxanna Sherwin, Jean Bartle, Jeanette Reece and Marjorie Brau. The Christmas Day service will be at 9:30 a.m.

The December meeting of the Recreation Commission was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Brown. With the chairman Bob Seriver presiding, the route for Santa Claus' forthcoming journey through the district was arranged. Plans for an evening of playing "Bingo" were finalized for Friday, Jan. 6 in the W. I. Hall at 8 o'clock, when it is hoped to raise funds for some of next year's projects. After the business of the evening was completed, the hostess served refreshments. The next meeting will be at Mr. and Mrs. Claude McClure's house on January 10.

Christmas Bells — Longfellow
I heard the bells on Christmas Day
Their old familiar carols play,
And wild and sweet
The words repeat
Of peace on earth, good will to men!
And thought how, as the day had come,
The bellfrons of all Christendom
Had rolled along
The Unbroken Song
Of peace on earth, good will to men!
And ringing, ringing on its way,
The world revolved from night to day,
A voice, a chime,
A chant sublime...
Of peace on earth, good will to men!

Lament Sounded For End Of Old Time Biography

NEW YORK (AP)—Isabel Ross is a jolly little blonde Scots-woman who looks like the last person in the world to hang crepe.

But she's worried these days about the survival of something close to her heart: Biography. "I'm afraid it's going to be killed off," she said recently as her latest book — Silhouette in Diamonds, on the queen of Chicago society, Mrs. Potter Palmer — rolled off the presses. "Everybody is writing his own biography, or having it ghosted. This terrible urge of self confession that's rampant," she sniffed, "is going to affect the whole biographical period. And besides, nowadays nobody keeps diaries, or even writes letters you can call letters. There are no more charming epistles being penned in violet ink and tied together by a ribbon to be discovered by a biographer."

This might make Miss Ross sound like a lavender-and-old-lace type. The truth is, she's been a hardheaded reporter since about the First World War. For years she covered top news events for the New York Herald Tribune, and she's still the tireless reporter in researching her books.

"I go after biographical facts the same way I would cover a story," she explained. "I study the historical scene, read books of the period, travel extensively and interview innumerable people."

CAME TO CANADA

Miss Ross left Scotland after finishing school, worked on Toronto newspapers for a while, then joined The Herald Tribune in 1910. On an assignment in 1922 she met and married Bruce Rae of the New York Times, and they're still a happy couple. When their daughter arrived in 1933 she quit newspaper work to stay home with the baby. She tried writing novels, and her first one, Promenade Deck, became a best seller. It was made into a movie called Three on a Honeymoon, a fact she has learned to live with.

After a spate of novels the old reporting urge got the upper hand. She wrote Ladies of the Press, a book that swept more than one impressionable girl into woman doctor, followed, and that led to a procession of famous Civil War ladies: Mrs. Jefferson Davis, Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant, Rose O'Neal Greenhow, Clara Barton, Kate Chase.

Writing about people who have lived—and hence interviewable—descendants has its moments, but Miss Ross said she'd still prefer working on subjects in the 17th century. There would be no outraged family feelings to consider.

Is The Woman's Place At A Sink Or In An Office?

By CAROL KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Woman's place—where is it? In the home or in the wider sphere of public life? At the sink or at the desk? And how much use has she really made of her hard-won emancipation?

A glossy pamphlet issued by the Conservative central office has set Fleet Street debating the old problem once again.

Confidently titled A Woman's Place, the pamphlet is written by 39-year-old Joan Barnes, a dedicated, unmarried political worker, and challenges women to "use their opportunities and carry out their responsibilities in public life."

Without actually quoting her party's well-worn slogan, Miss Barnes drives home the point that women have never had it so good.

Nowadays they spend an average of 3½ years in childbearing, compared with 15 years half a century ago.

They are better educated than ever before; machines have released them from household drudgery; their tastes dominate consumer spending, and they wield enormous influence in business life. The press respects their opinion. Even the severely masculine Financial Times now runs features for women.

DON'T PULL WEIGHT

But with all these advantages they are not pulling their weight in society. What exactly are they doing with their increased opportunities?

Miss Barnes admits right away that most women feel their first place is in the home—but she maintains it is not their only place. She admits, too, that few women reach top jobs.

This is inevitable, for at the age when a man is carving out his career, most women are bringing up children.

But success in business is not all. Women have a vital role to play in the nation's life, for which they are specially fitted, declares the breezy Miss Barnes. Their influence could save the affluent society from becoming too materialistic in its values—a mother who has given moral guidance to her children could help to give it to society.

This is a long way from what the suffragettes had in mind when they went through fire, water and hunger-strikes to win the vote for women.

In those embittered days they saw no farther than the goal of complete equality with men.

LESS IMITATION

With the principle of their equality accepted, women's urge to imitate men has died away. Even a generation ago, at the time of the "flapper" vote, Virginia Woolf was asking: "Ought not education to bring out and fortify the differences rather than the similarities?"

Joan Barnes is all for the talents and abilities of women complementing rather than challenging those of men. But she does hate the thought of those talents blushing unseen within the four walls of a home when they could be working away for the public good on political committees and welfare organizations.

Her booklet is primarily aimed at the married woman whose children are of school age and no longer fully dependent on her.

About the same time as it appeared, Education Minister Sir

David Eccles appealed to single girls to train for a profession—preferably teaching — before marrying, and to come back to work when their children were old enough.

With full employment, he said, older married women were now the only reservoir of highly-skilled labor in the country.

SECTION KILLED

NEW YORK (AP) John McAuliffe, 85, retired president of the Icelandic Steamship Company, died Friday in Manhattan. He retired from Icelandic in 1947, served as board chairman of the American Eastern Company until which European, Asian and Arab shipping lines could have peacefully co-existed with black Africa.

1957 and at the time of his death was a director of the American Export Line and a member of the board of managers of the American Bureau of Shipping.

Viewed for more seriously by all was the collapse of the Congo administration and economy and the ensuing outbreak of chaotic violence. It was against this backdrop that attempts are being made to lead the east and central African colonies towards independence.

Tribal loyalties were hampering constitutional progress in the East African colony of Uganda. A search still was being made for an acceptable formula under which European, Asian and Arab shipping lines could have peacefully co-existed with black Africa.

Severe Tests Lie Ahead For Commonwealth Bonds

LONDON (CP) — The bonds that link the 11 independent countries making up the Commonwealth of Nations will be severely tested during the months ahead.

As 1960 ended, the members of the family were giving increased attention to the issues that divided them and the complex problems that faced them.

These problems and issues will make the meeting next March of Commonwealth prime ministers one of the most important in the group's history.

There were differences over whether South Africa, which enforces a policy of racial segregation, should be allowed to retain membership.

Some leaders were becoming worried about the adverse effect the new European trading blocs may have on their export markets.

There was a growing realization of the need to strengthen the economies of less-developed members by mobilizing family resources more effectively. This developed not only from a desire to resist Communist pressures, but also from a genuine urge to raise living standards of all Commonwealth citizens.

CONGO CAUSES CONCERN
Viewed for more seriously by all was the collapse of the Congo administration and economy and the ensuing outbreak of chaotic violence. It was against this backdrop that attempts are being made to lead the east and central African colonies towards independence.

Tribal loyalties were hampering constitutional progress in the East African colony of Uganda. A search still was being made for an acceptable formula under which European, Asian and Arab shipping lines could have peacefully co-existed with black Africa.

1957 and at the time of his death was a director of the American Export Line and a member of the board of managers of the American Bureau of Shipping.

to accept independent nation-hood.
The birth of the new nations within the Commonwealth and the effect they will have on Commonwealth prime ministers' meetings will likely be one of the topics when the family leaders meet in March.
There are some who believe a two-tier system of membership should be established, with the big, older members having seniority.
Some authorities feel, however, that such an idea would be unworkable. Some of the new nations—such as Sierra Leone and possibly Cyprus—will find it difficult to accept a second-class membership when they will enjoy full and equal status in organizations such as the United Nations.
A MAJOR PROBLEM
Perhaps the hottest topic that will face the prime ministers is the question of South Africa's membership. South Africa's whites last fall voted in favor of a republican form of government.
Prime Minister Verwoerd is to make his first appearance at a prime ministers' meeting to try to win support for continued membership.
Some leaders, notably Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaysia and Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore, have fiercely denounced Verwoerd's racial policies and demanded that membership as a republic be withheld.
Observers have noted, however, that their denunciations have been less forceful recently and their demands less forceful.
Some conclude from this that they will not take the decisive step next March to vote for South Africa's expulsion.
The feeling in London, at any rate, is one of caution and restraint. It is hoped that the conference would develop into a major crisis and that none of the bonds would be snapped.

DISARMAMENT HIS DREAM

Howard Green's Voice Of Truth Impressed UN

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)
The legs of Canadian diplomats will be kept agile in the pursuit of disarmament in 1961.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green's dream of the future is disarmament and he has made it clear that the dream—if it is a dream—will not be forgotten regardless of rude awakenings.

Disarmament is the main initiative of Canada in the 15th UN General Assembly—now in recess until March 7—and it received a shattering setback just before adjournment when delegates turned down a plea to vote on a Canadian resolution urging a resumption of East-West talks.

Green promptly announced that Canada would press again for the resolution after March 7 and he predicted that it might even receive unanimous approval—although on the other hand, it might be defeated.

CONVINCING SPEECHES

It is this "we'll-darn-well-try-anyway" approach that has endeared the white-haired, lanky Canadian foreign chief to the press corps at the UN.

In the midst of endless speech-making by great-power representatives and others at the UN, Green's voice has somehow attained the ring of truth and dark-skinned newspaper men from Africa have been known to come up to a Canadian colleague and say: "He really means it, doesn't he?"

HOWARD GREEN
"... we have tried"

The Canadians could point to achievements in the pre-Christmas part of the assembly meetings.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's plan for a food bank—approved by the assembly—won friends for Canada among the Afro-Asian peoples. So did his plan for an "experts bank"—a system of rosters from which skilled personnel could be drawn to meet disasters and other emergencies around the world.

FRUSTRATING JOB

Nevertheless, the assembly was inundated with propaganda of every kind, causing Green to remark to a reporter:

"I think there's quite a sense of frustration about the place because little has been cleaned up or actually finished."

"We have tried," he added, "to build up goodwill with the new African countries."

Canada stood well with the 45-nation—and growing—Afro-Asian group by voting against colonialism while the United States, for instance, stood back.

Canada plumped for an increase in the size of the powerful Security Council to include membership from African countries, then supported a saw-off in favor of an African country when the Soviet Union blocked addition to the council's number.

AGAINST RED CHINA

In a not-so-popular move among the Afro-Asians, Canada voted against consideration of UN membership for Red China, although later Diefenbaker spoke elsewhere in tones hinting possible recognition.

Canada supported the idea that the UN had something to say about the destiny of Algerian rebels in their war against France, but backed away from supporting the concept of a referendum on the matter being reported by the UN.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

A fine aspect now governs written matters, communications in general. Lunar influences promote home and domestic affairs. All in all, a good day.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates you could be faced with some confusing business situations during the next month. You can anticipate moves and act accordingly. It would be advisable quietly show a disposition to co-operate and don't let others sway you from using your better judgment where your pocketbook is concerned.

Following this program, early January should bring a definite upturn in your affairs, with good influences continuing for the next nine months. This will be an excellent period for seeking earned favors and for developing stronger ties with loved ones and business associates.

Good job and financial opportunities are also indicated during this period. After that, you will have to follow a most conservative course early November, when things will pick up again. Extremes and recklessness should be avoided at all costs, especially in March and August.

A child born on this day will be clever and dependable but may be inclined to meddle in the affairs of others.

FOR MONDAY

Think carefully before launching upon new ventures. They could prove highly successful, but be sure you know exactly what you are getting into. Job matters should run smoothly, but strictly business affairs call for caution.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If Monday is your birthday, you can expect satisfying career gains during the coming year. Put forth your best efforts and display an eagerness to assume extra responsibility. The period between January and June should prove especially rewarding where work matters are concerned, and you could profit financially during this period, too.

Stress periods in personal relationships are possible early in 1961, so be alert. Be philosophic if, in mid-April, circumstances beyond your control cause a change in plans. Actually, they should work out for the better in the long run.

Look for some very good news of a personal nature in May of this year.

A child born on this day will be ambitious, anxious for knowledge, and will possess a highly sagacious mind.

FOR TUESDAY

A fine aspect governs creative work, social functions and artistic matters through original methods. Most persons will be congenial, and ties of affection should be improved.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If Tuesday is your birthday, your horoscope indicates pleasing prospects during the year ahead. February and March will be especially good months for financial matters. July and August will be good for travel. Both romance and marriage are "in the stars" during next May and June.

Where finances are concerned, the main thing is to remain calm, building up new foundations but without expectation of good results until the last six months of 1961. From the long-range standpoint, efforts to stabilize your situation could prove extremely profitable. Late January and early February should open up new avenues to advancement in all fields.

A child born on this day will be highly practical and dependable, and exceptionally discriminatory.

FOR WEDNESDAY

Don't go off on tangents which could impair efficiency or cause financial losses. This will be particularly important in the morning hours. During the P.M., planetary aspects will be more generous and you should find life more enjoyable.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

Your horoscope indicates that, despite temporary setbacks, you can make this year pay off if you work and plan with confidence, good judgment and foresight. Put forth your best efforts, especially during March and April in both job and financial matters, since the results you achieve then could more than offset the comparatively dull periods which will prevail in later months.

Personal matters will be under good influences for most of the year, with emphasis on happy domestic and sentimental relationships. In fact, 1961 should be one of the very best years in many for romance and marriage. Travel is in the stars for June, July, September and this January will be fine for social activities.

A child born on this day will be extremely sensitive and will have a remarkable sense of justice.

PUSH-BUTTON TREES

Best wishes for the holiday season from the
KELOWNA division of:

CROWN ZELLERBACH CANADA LIMITED
Manufacturers of Forest Products in Canada since 1917

As markets grow, as the demand for timber and wood and paper products expands, as competition gets keener, so grows the need for greater and more efficient production.

Over the years, more and more machines have gone to work for the forest industry. Peelers that reduce a log to plywood veneer in a twinkling. Barkers, chippers, sanders—if you've ever visited a plywood plant, if you work in a pulp or paper mill, you know the extent, and the importance of mechanization and automation.

This, however, does not forecast a "man vs. machine" technology, with mechanical and electronic monsters doing all the work. On the contrary, it forecasts even greater need for the kind of human skills that machines can never perform.

For example, as the automobile industry grew, and more and more machines were used to turn out cars, more and more men were needed to make the machines work.

Today, even on the threshold of the Age of Space, the Age of Man is far from over. No machine has been invented—nor can it ever be—to do man's thinking for him.

People will always be the essential force in our industry and in our company. Not only for what they can do, but for what they are. Fellow human beings.

A PREVIEW TO A GIFT-UNWRAPPING

Kelowna Gets Set For Traditional Christmas

Home To Be Centre Of Most Activity

The theme for Christmas activities in Kelowna this year seems to be "traditional."

Most of the large scale parties for the Christmas festive season are over, and it appears that the population of Kelowna is settling down to a nice Christmas at home. Most company or office parties, service club or lodge parties, and the hospital's parties have already been held.

It may be that localities are planning to carry on their celebrations "underground", in the form of private parties. According to local caterers, a number of wedding receptions and smaller clubs' parties are still in the offing.

But while most people plan to spend Christmas warming themselves in front of the fireplace, it looks like the big social event of the season, the New Year's party, is going to draw them from the shell.

HOSPITAL HOSPITALITY

The hospital has had its big staff and patients' coffee party. Christmas dinner will be traditional with variations. Carolers have been in, and patients will be entertained by the choir for the Pathfinders on Friday.

The staff of the Kelowna General Hospital, and many local church organizations and clubs attempt to alleviate the drear prospect of facing Christmas away from the family for the patients.

The Kelowna branch of the Salvation Army distributed its Sunshine Bags to the patients Thursday with this goal in mind.

The liquor store says that purchases are "on par for the season." It may be that the good citizens of Kelowna are heeding police warnings of "no parking in city jails."

The David Lloyd Jones Home for the Aged plans a traditional Christmas dinner also. The Sars Dancing School is going to perform at the home on Christmas Eve. A choir of Canadian Girls in Training has been in to sing at the home.

B.C. DRAGOONS

One of the highlights of the social year in Kelowna is the New Year's Eve party for the Aquatic Club. Planned for this meridian party of the year is a dance and buffet supper, and the B.C. Dragoons plan a big welcome to the New Year at the Kelowna Armouries.

The Kelowna branch of the Legion has concluded its plans for Christmas activities. "No more activities until the president returns on Jan. 2," said a spokesman. But the Legion Hall has been rented to the Junior Chamber of Commerce for a New Year's Eve dance.

The Golf Club has a big Open House for members and guests planned for Dec. 26.

Christmas Greetings

from the City of Kelowna

Again we approach the season when the Yuletide bells peel their message of happiness to all mankind and the celestial chorus proclaims the age old message "Peace On Earth — Good Will To Men".

As each mellow note rings forth over the peaceful Okanagan countryside, we of the City of Kelowna may look backwards upon a year of rapid advancement and yet sound growth.

The future is hidden from us, but as we strive to pierce the veil we may look forward in 1961 confidently and with anticipation that the year will bring a consolidation of the position we have achieved and a further sound development of a very substantial nature.

We who have served in City affairs during 1960 have striven to the best of our ability to make Kelowna a good city in which to live. We will continue to give you the best of our ability in the months that lie ahead.

Sure in the knowledge that Kelowna will continue to move forward on a steady and sound plane, we of the City Council, and City Staff wish you all . . .

On behalf of the City of Kelowna, Your Elected Representatives and Your City Employees,

A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR

British Appear Heading For Belt-Tightening Year

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The British people appear to be in for a period of belt-tightening as they head into 1961.

As 1960 drew to a close, the nation was delicately poised on the rim of what appeared to be a downturn in economic activity.

The signs that emerged in recent months were a source of grave and scarcely concealed concern for both industry and government.

Exports dropped in an alarming rate; imports remained relatively stationary or showed a slight tendency to rise.

Economic expansion appears to have stopped. Production already has levelled off and the productivity of workers has started to drop.

The slackened output has not so far been reflected in increased unemployment but this is feared during the early months of 1961.

Among those taking a gloomy view of the nation's future is the National Institute of Economic and Social Research, an independent organization financed by the Ford Foundation.

WORLD TRADE SLOWED

"It is increasingly clear that the United Kingdom economy is moving into a difficult period," says the highly-respected institute in its latest review.

What worries many economists is Britain's seeming inability to maintain her position in world markets. The research group takes the view that British exports will rise only when world trade expands fast enough to offset the fall in Britain's share.

Some of the reasons for this are plainly beyond the control of exporters. British car sales to Canada and the United States have suffered severely as a result of the North American recession. They have also been hit by the development of an American compact car and the full impact of this will not be felt until some time next spring.

This, say the economists, is not unexpected. But what disturbs them is the fact that continental auto makers are outselling the British with a more aggressive pricing policy.

COSTS NOW RISING

In its study on wages, costs and prices, the National Institute found that during 1959 costs and prices generally were either stable or falling.

Now, costs are rising, partly because labor costs have increased steeply and partly because the levelling of output has stopped the rise in productivity which previously offset the rise in the wage bill.

The research organization concludes that there is little hope for improvement in the outlook for British exports.

Major structural changes in world trade, the progressive loss of protection in Commonwealth markets, and the exclusion from the larger of the new protected market systems in Europe are working unfavorably for our exports.

In contrast with Britain's rather gloomy outlook, the boom on the continent—particularly in the European Economic Community—continues, although at a slower pace than in the first half of 1960.

CREATE BIG MARKET

This is one of the fruits of the creation of the dynamic Common Market three years ago by France, Germany, Italy and the Benelux countries. Their goal is to eliminate all tariff and trade barriers among themselves, a move that will result in the creation of a market almost as big as that of the United States.

In preparation for this, investors and industrialists are pouring millions of dollars into new plans to meet the requirements of a new large-scale outlet.

Among those contributing to this expansion wave are Americans, Britons and Canadians—all building factories within the Community to overcome the common tariff wall that ultimately will bring the Six as a whole.

Britain and her partners in the rival Outer Seven bloc—the Scandinavian countries, Austria, Switzerland and Portugal—all looking at this protected market system from the outside, now are anxiously seeking ways of joining forces with it.

There is, however, little likelihood that the breach between the two blocs will be healed early in the year.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

Canadians Just Same Old Sentimentalists At Heart

By EDNA BLAKELY

TORONTO (CP)—The simple messages on greeting cards indicate our approach to easier living, says Donald Porter, president of a Canadian greeting card firm.

He says Canadians are as sentimental as ever but "they just don't want to show it."

No matter what the sentiment is, however, the etiquette of card-sending remains the same.

"Never type the envelope," Mr. Porter says. The address should be handwritten and the return address also handwritten unless it is imprinted on the card.

The card should be put into the envelope with the fold at the bottom so that the picture and message are right side up when the card is removed.

Common sense and the postal department set the mailing dates for cards but Mr. Porter says Christmas cards "should really be there a few days before the holiday."

Informal greetings for friends and relatives may be signed either "John and Mary Brown" or "Mary and John Brown."

FATHER FIRST

If the names of the children are added, the father's name should be first, followed by the mother and then the names of the children starting with the oldest. The family name, such as "The Browns," may be written above the individual names.

The plural is formed by adding s except in the case of names ending with ch, sh, s, x or z. In those cases the plural is formed by adding es. However, if es doesn't sound right, as in "The Hayneses," it's advisable to use "The Haynes Family."

It's not correct to use an apostrophe when indicating the plural of a name. It would be wrong to write "The Brown's."

A card addressed to a doctor should read "Dr. and Mrs. Tom Brown."

The use of colored ink adds a gay note to cards and is correct. Green and red are most popular but any hue may be used if it harmonizes with the color scheme of the card.

Mr. Porter says cards should reflect something of the sender's personality or surroundings. Forings from persons to whom they his sister, who lives on a farm, didn't send cards. There are Mr. Porter chose a country "thank you" cards to send in return for Christmas wishes.

Portable Dishwasher Can Be Built In Later

Portable as well as convertible this shining major appliance can be bought now, used, then installed in permanent home.

A boon to any homemaker who has said "Sure, I'd love to have my own dishwasher—but not till I have my own home!" is a new convertible—portable dishwasher that lets you enjoy automatic dishwashing right now, a dishwashing machine that moves when you move, and that can eventually be permanently installed in your permanent home.

This new dishwasher combines the best features of portable and built-in models. It can be easily moved from place to place on casters, connected to the faucet with a simple, snap-on device and plugged into any electric outlet. The portable features can be easily removed and the washer fitted into the required space when the family moves into its own home.

A feature of this model is its spacious maple, counter-height cutting top, designed for handy use in preparing food and to add a custom touch to the kitchen when the dishwasher is permanently installed.

Frying Pan A Useful Present

From Breakfast through, this magical pan will see lots of service.

A common sense test for a worthwhile gift to the lady is how much use and convenience the gift will afford her.

Try this one out! Here's an electric fry pan that prepares a wide variety of foods for any cooking occasion. Frying, pot roasting, steaming, stewing or pan broiling, this new addition to a famous family of electric housewares is practically indestructible.

Extra sturdy, without extra weight, it holds a gallon liquid measure. The bottom of the pan has a heating element fused to it, and a simplified heat control unit is built into the electric plug.

To clean, merely disconnect the plug, immerse completely, including the handle and it is ready to serve again.

The Greatest Gift

It's wonderful to receive "the world" for Christmas—but think how much more wonderful it would be if we could give Christmas to the world! If the true Christian spirit could permeate the globe, all fear of war, destruction, extermination, would be over.

It is only through the Church that Christian teachings can hope to reach to the darkest corners on earth, bringing enlightenment in their wake. By proclaiming God's eternal message, the Church can bring the hope of peace closer to reality.

But if Christmas is to be given to the world, then all of us must first do our part by living our own individual lives in the Christian way. Start now—by attending regularly the church of your faith.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Guests For Dinner Can Fit Into Your Holiday Budget

"After we buy the tree and all the gifts for everyone, we hardly can afford to entertain during the Christmas holidays," moaned a young homemaker to me a few days ago.

"Nonsense," I replied. "Entertaining—even for dinner during the festive season need not break the bank! Begin by selecting a hot and hearty main dish. Two of my favorites are French Hamburger Stew and Rosy Beef Stroganoff.

One and a half pounds of ground beef serves six when served in the stew; one pound of steak serves four in the stroganoff. You couldn't ask for anything more."

Here are suggested menus for both.

French Hamburger Stew
Crosty French Loaf with Mustard Butter
Tossed Greens with Creamy Roquefort Dressing
Baked Apples
Coffee
Rosy Beef Stroganoff with Noodles or Rice
Erocoli
Hot Rolls
Crepe de Menthe Sundaes

FRENCH HAMBURGER STEW
1½ pounds ground beef
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup tomato ketchup
2 tablespoons shortening

1 cup water
2 cups celery, cut into 1-inch strips
4 medium carrots, cut into 1-inch pieces
4 medium carrots, cut into 1-2 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper

In large skillet or Dutch oven, brown beef and onion in shortening. Add ketchup and remaining ingredients. Simmer, covered, one hour or until vegetables are tender, adding more water if stew becomes too thick. Makes 6-8 servings.

With the French Hamburger Stew, we suggest serving a crusty French loaf brushed with mustard butter and heated in the oven till piping hot.

CRUSTY FRENCH BREAD WITH MUSTARD BUTTER
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 loaf French bread (1 to 1½ pounds)

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. (moderate). Blend softened butter, garlic and mustard. Cut bread diagonally into 1-inch thick slices, cutting almost to bottom of loaf. Spread mixture between slices and over top of bread. Place on cookie sheet. Bake 15-20 minutes. Serve while hot.

Here's the dressing for the tossed greens:

CREAMY ROQUEFORT DRESSING

3 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 jar (5 ounces) Roquefort cheese spread, softened
½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
2 teaspoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika

Gradually add vinegar to cheese. Stir in remaining ingredients until creamy smooth. Makes 1½ cups.

Sour cream is enjoying unprecedented popularity now that most commercial dairies are packing it in half and pint cartons. You'll need 1 cup or ½ pint for the Rosy Beef Stroganoff.

The "rosy" part of the title of this recipe comes from the addition of a ½ cup tomato ketchup or chili sauce, the ingredient that picks up the flavor of the stroganoff to make it a real party dish.

ROSY BEEF STROGANOFF
1 pound round steak, cut into strips 1½" x ½" x ½"
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons shortening
1 cup dairy sour cream
½ cup tomato ketchup or chili sauce

1 cup water
Dredge meat with flour, salt and pepper. Brown meat, onion and garlic in shortening in large skillet. Combine sour cream, ketchup or chili sauce and water; stir in with meat. Simmer, covered, stirring occasionally, for 1½ hours or until meat is tender. Add a little water if a thinner gravy is desired. Serve over hot noodles or spaghetti. Makes 4 servings.

3 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 tablespoons mustard sauce
¼ cup chopped nuts
Combine all ingredients except nuts, mixing lightly. Chill. Just before serving add nuts. Serve on lettuce lined plates. Makes 4 servings.

N. Zealand To Curb Inflation

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—Prime Minister Keith Holyoake Thursday announced steps by his new National party government to counter inflation.

He said the government soon will raise an internal loan, review government expenditures to keep it down to an efficient minimum and maintain close watch on the trend of bank advances.

GREETINGS

Once again, people of Christian belief throughout the world are preparing to observe the most happy and meaningful anniversary of all, and it is a great pleasure to me to extend to the people of the South Okanagan Constituency heartiest good wishes for Christmas and for the year ahead.

The magic of Christmas draws families closer and restores long-neglected friendships. But as we exchange these warmly personal remembrances, we recall, too, that our faith enjoins us to turn our thoughts outward at this season in a prayer for peace and goodwill to ALL men.

The message of Christmas is an old one; but time will never dim its truth and beauty. Let us, then, give thanks again for the peace and serenity conferred by God on us who live in the Okanagan Valley, and let us fervently hope that these great blessings may extend to people everywhere.

Merry Christmas to you all, and good wishes for the New Year.

A Pre-Holiday Appeal To All Motorists

DRIVE WITH COMPLETE CARE AND COMMON SENSE

A pre-holiday appeal to motorists of Kelowna and district warns that strict observance of rules of the road is more important now than at any time of the year. This statement is based on experiences of the past, which are supported by statistics.

"The traffic problem is with us every hour of the day so that each individual is exposed to it many times during each day, as a motorist or a pedestrian. Each has a cooperative responsibility to play in his own safety and that of others.

"Nothing will spoil a holiday more quickly than an accident, usually with serious aftermaths of personal injury and property damage," Staff-Sgt. MacAlpine states. "Accidents do not happen, but are caused. Let each of us play our part well so that this will be a happy accident-free holiday season."

Driving is Your ONLY Problem!

Today's traffic often demands quick decisions, fast action. What you do must be right — your safety depends on it. And unless driving has your complete attention, you could come up with the wrong answers. Last year over 37,000 people died in traffic accidents — 40 times that many suffered painful injuries. No driver can afford to overlook the consequences of inattention at the wheel.

PROOF THERE'S A SANTA

All Ages Enjoy Visit To Christmas Pantomime

By M. McINTYRE HOOD
Special to The Daily Courier

LONDON — Christmas is the season for children—just as much here in London as elsewhere throughout the Christian world. But in this great city, and in other cities throughout the British Isles, it seems as if childhood and Christmas enjoyment become not a matter of age. In some of the features which are distinctive about the English Christmas, everyone, regardless of age, seems to revert back to the days of childhood when Santa Claus seemed a reality, and the Christmas season the most glorious time of all the year.

The one great feature of the Christmas season to which children in spirit, regardless of their age, look forward, is the opening of the pantomimes in the main theatres of London and other cities throughout the land. The pantomime is a distinctly English Christmas creation. It carries all who enjoy it back to the days of childhood, when nursery rhymes and fairy tales all seemed very real.

BASED ON OLD FABLES
Each year, in different theatres, different stories are chosen to provide the theme and plot for the annual pantomime. There seems to be no end of fairy tales, nursery rhymes and fables on which a pantomime can be based. Since I came over here, I have revelled in the pantomime of "Mother Goose" and the goose which laid the gold egg; have thrilled anew to "Cinderella," "The Sleeping Beauty," "Aladdin and his wonderful lamp," "Sinbad the Sailor" and other just as familiar childhood stories all made the centre of the annual stage frolic which the British people love to see and hear.

The story of the fable, whatever it might be, is simply a peg on which to hang a colorful extravaganza of music, singing and dancing. It pops up now and again just to remind the audience that there is a story, but the episodes are interspersed with variety acts, comedy stunts and popular songs which are always expected in a pantomime production.

There are some characteristics which seem common to all pantomimes. Each has its principal boy and principal girl. The "Prince Charming" or principal boy is usually the leading role, and is always played by a girl with her shapely limbs enclosed in tights. The heroine of the piece, the principal girl, is usually a fluttering little character, all frills and furbelows, with a tinkling soprano voice, heard throughout the piece in songs suited to the occasion.

There is always a "dame", a rather heavy part of a middle-aged female of generous proportions, always played by an outstanding comedian of the male sex. His job is to keep the audience in roars of laughter for almost every moment he is on the stage. Some of these comedians are among the highest paid artists on the British stage. They are very necessary to a successful pantomime.

CHORUS IMPORTANT

The other characters, in addition to these which are a "must" depend on the story. But the cast also must include a bevy of beautiful chorus girls able to sing and dance well, a number of other comedians with minor roles, and in most cases, characters representing animals which have something to do with the story.

There is nothing quite like a pantomime in the Canadian theatrical world. But over here, it is just as much a part of Christmas as turkey and plum pudding, and just as much enjoyed. And the popularity of pantomimes with the public is such that although the shows start with the advent of the Christmas season, they usually enjoy a run of about three months in the largest London theatres, with capacity houses for the whole period.

How To Make It Safer For Guests At Holiday Parties

During the holiday season, thoughtful hostesses keep in mind that many of their guests have to drive safely home after the evening.

Around Christmas and New Year's, visitors stay up so late they frequently feel drowsy as they prepare to leave. This is a common cause of highway accidents and fatalities that spoil too many parties around the end of the year.

One or two rounds of piping hot coffee will greatly help your departing guests—even those who will be walking—to stay alert and alive till they go to bed.

But the safety cup has to be reasonably strong and well brewed as part of good hospitality. Scores of hostesses have found the following brewing method absolutely reliable for making 40 servings of coffee, which is just about right for 25 guests of whom 15 will usually accept a second cup gratefully.

Of course, you can add or subtract to this sample formula. The method is called "steeping" and a large kettle plus a good supply of coffee are its main requirements.

HOW TO BREW COFFEE FOR A CROWD

2 gallons of fresh, cold water

1 pound regular grind coffee
Measure two gallons of fresh, drawn cold water into the kettle and bring the water to the boiling point.

LARGE SACK

Meanwhile, measure one pound of regular grind coffee into a sack made from clean sheeting or double-thick cheesecloth, or, if you have one, a large cloth sugar sack. The sack must be big enough so that it is not more than half filled when the ground coffee is placed in it. This is to allow for the expansion of the coffee when it comes in contact with the water. Tie the top of the sack tightly with a clean strong white cord. Leave the cord ends long enough to fasten to the kettle's handle; this is to help you remove the sack after the coffee has brewed.

Remove the kettle from direct heat as soon as the water comes to a full, rolling boil and drop the coffee sack into it at once. With a long handled wooden spoon or a clean stick, push the sack up and down so that water is forced through the ground coffee. Cover the kettle and let the coffee brew over low heat for twelve to fifteen minutes. Never let the coffee boil! During the brewing, remove the cover frequently and move the sack briskly up and down. When the time is up, remove the sack, letting it drain thoroughly, and stir the brew.

There you are — with perfect coffee all ready to be served to your holiday party guests.

FREE LIBRARIES

Free public libraries began in time is up, remove the sack, letting it drain thoroughly, and stir the brew.

FAT RATS

How North Beats Yule Loneliness

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP) — "CQ CQ—CQ, this is VERDJ in Fort Smith, Northwest Territories. Welcome to our northern Christmas party."

This is the call used by Don Jackson, department of transport employee and ham radio operator, on Christmas Day when he joins other Northwest Territories hams on the air for a shortwave holiday party.

Barring interference from the weather or northern lights, ham operators from Hudson Bay to Alaska and from Edmonton to the Arctic coast will join the party to exchange greetings and relay messages to friends and relatives.

The VEBs, licensed radio operators in the Northwest Territories, will be the hosts since the Christmas radio party is their traditional solution to the problem of Yuletide isolation, but guests have been known to join in from as far away as California and New Brunswick.

Many of the VEBs are on the air for some time every day, beating the loneliness of such posts as Coral Harbour, Coppermine or Fort Wrigley with short-wave talks to friends in the world's bustling cities.

But the Christmas party is something special, turning a day of homesickness and blue nostalgia into fun-filled hours of chatter and good cheer.

Some of the operators, such as Don Jackson, have a contact on the "outside" who will join the party to relay telephone calls. Since early November they have kept a list of their northern friends who want to make a Christmas call to loved ones outside.

Their homes will be crowded Dec. 25 with sons phoning their mothers, husbands phoning their wives and single men sending a "Merry Christmas" to them sweethearts.

Priority goes to the high Arctic callers who get through only when the "skip" of the radio waves is just right.

Charlie Overs and Mike Kozens, two of the six white men in Coral Harbour, will be trying to get through to Don Jackson for a chat with their friends in Fort Smith. They were transferred to the lonely Southampton Island post after doing stunts with the department of transport here.

RICH OLD FASHIONED HOLIDAY COOKIES

CHIP BUTTER BALLS
2 cups sifted pastry flour
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1 cup (6-oz. pkg.) chocolate chips

3/4 cup butter
1 1/2 cups sifted icing sugar
1/4 teaspoon rum extract
2 teaspoons cold water
Icing sugar

Combine flour, pecans, and chips. Cream butter, gradually add salt and 1/2 cup icing sugar, and cream until fluffy. Add rum extract and water; mix. Gradually add flour mixture and blend. Mold dough into balls, crescents, or wreaths. Bake on ungreased baking sheets in a slow oven (325 deg. F.) about 23 minutes.

While cookies are warm, roll in icing sugar. When they are cool, sprinkle with additional icing sugar. If desired garnish with red and green candied cherries, silver dragees and multi-colored sprinkles. Store in an airtight container. Makes about 3 dozen cookies.

VELVET FONDANT

1 package (6-oz.) lemon chips
1 egg white
1 1/2 cups sifted icing sugar
Dash —of cream of tartar

1 package (8 squares) semi-sweet chocolate

Melt lemon chips over hot water. Combine egg white, icing sugar, and cream of tartar; mix thoroughly. Add the melted lemon chips, stirring until mixture is smooth and creamy. Shape into balls about 1/2 inch in diameter. Set on waxed paper and let stand a few hours to dry. Melt chocolate in a saucepan over low heat. Using a fork, dip fondant in chocolate. Let stand to dry. Makes about 4 1/2 dozen pieces.

Ring In A Change Over the Yuletide

Entertainment comes to the fore over the Yuletide. Today, the casual buffet, with an attractive array of hot and cold dishes, is favored by guests and hostesses alike.

Guests are free to sample and savor, when and as much as they wish, while the hostess is freed from kitchen duty, able to relax and have a happy time along with the guests—whether they drop in for a quick visit, or stay to spend the evening. Molded salads are colorful and practical additions to the holiday spread—practical because the little bit of effort required in their preparation can be readily disposed of long before the guests arrive.

With the surfeit of ham and turkey over the Christmas season, nothing would be quite so welcome at your buffet as a shimmering, creamy salmon mold.

Creamy Salmon Christmas Ring is piquant in flavor, and ever so festive in appearance—the delicate green mold studded as it is with bits of red pimento and green pepper and pinky flakes of salmon. The crowning holiday touch is a wreath of sliced stuffed olives.

CREAMY SALMON RING

2 cups pink salmon (1, 1-pound can)
2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1 1/4 cups water
1 can asparagus soup

1 4-ounce package cream cheese
2 tabl spoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons minced onion
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
3 tablespoons chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons chopped pimento
Sliced olives.

Drain and flake salmon. The liquid may be used to replace part of the water. Soften gelatine in 1/4 cup of the water. Combine soup and remaining 1 cup water and heat thoroughly. Add gelatine and cream cheese and beat until smooth. Let cool. Add lemon juice, onion, mayonnaise, mustard, green pepper, pimento and flaked salmon. Rinse a 4 cup mold with cold water. Pour in mixture and chill until firm. Turn out on platter. Garnish with sliced olives and chichory, or other greens. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

How To Make Homes The Talk Of Town

Home owners are starting now to plan Christmas decorations that will make their homes the talk of the town.

It's verily a merrily competitive thing in some areas, for many community organizations annually give prizes for outstanding decorations.

If you're looking for some novel ways to brighten the home grounds for the holidays, you'll find suggestions in a colorful little booklet called "Christmas Greetings With Light."

It's ablaze with ideas for decking the house—windows, roofs and shrubbery. You can use them as a guide in planning your own merry schemes.

The booklet, illustrated with 25 photographs, shows a number of ways to deck doorways for Christmas.

You can frame them with evergreens that are interspersed with colorful bulbs. You can decorate them with plywood candles, candy cane cut-outs or the traditional wreath, too.

One charming idea for a garage, covers its door with a fireplace cut-out hung with Christmas stockings. The driveway is illuminated by plywood candy canes that are caught by two well placed spotlights.

Of great interest to anyone planning outdoor lighting is a section of the booklet that suggests safety "musts." It illustrates acceptable methods for planning weatherproof wiring.

Also helpful are hints on choosing light bulbs that are themselves decorative.

For one there's a bulb designed with a lively swirling pattern in five brilliant combinations. Another globe-shaped bulb, available in five different tints, resembles a polished tree ornament when it's unlit.

Royal Family Events Hit News High Spots In 1960

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Two separate events—the birth of Prince Andrew and the marriage of Princess Margaret—drew more-than-usual attention to the Royal Family in 1960.

While the birth of the Queen's third child was the object of world-wide interest, it was the wedding, with its medieval magnificence, that was to overshadow everything else as the year's most spectacular royal event.

There were the fairy-tale elements of the marriage of the beautiful princess and the commoner, photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones. There was the glittering pageantry of the May wedding with the simple but moving exchange of vows within the great walls of Westminster Abbey. There were the cheering throngs of well-wishers and, finally, the honeymoon in the romantic Caribbean.

With the engagement announcement coming within days of the February birth of Prince Andrew, world attention was focused on the Royal Family almost continuously for the first six months of the year. Seldom has there been such a concentration of so-called "inside" stories.

TOURS CURTAILED

Readers were entertained with everything from information on the diaper material for the baby prince to the latest gossip on the former girl friends of Armstrong-Jones. Hardly a day went by without some revelation hitting the front pages. It didn't stop until long after Princess Margaret and her husband were settled in their residence at Kensington Palace.

Because of the birth and marriage, many of the activities normally undertaken by the Royal Family were curtailed. Overseas tours were trimmed to a minimum, and formal events at home were cancelled for much of the year.

The Queen and Prince Philip, who have been increasing their

The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester plan to visit Greece in May. The Duke is also planning at least three visits to British Army units in Germany.

The Queen Mother, the Duchess of Kent, Princess Alexandra, Princess Margaret and her husband all enter the new year without any overseas trips on the schedule. But spokesmen say this has little actual bearing on their activities since many trips are undertaken at relatively short notice.

Spanish Chicken Casserole: Heat 1/4 c. olive oil in heavy large skillet.

Add 1 section chopped peeled garlic, 1 large onion peeled and sliced and 1 seeded green pepper cut in strips. Sauté 3 min. Remove and save.

Into skillet put 1 (3-lb.) broiler-fryer sectioned as for fricassee. Sauté until golden.

Add 3/4 c. pignolles (pinenuts) or use cashews or half blanched almonds.

Stir in 1/2 tsp. flour, 1 1/2 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. paprika and 1/4 tsp. pepper.

Add sautéed onion mixture and gradually, 1 c. undiluted canned beef bouillon and 3 tbsp. dry sherry (or omit sherry and add equal amount of bouillon). Cook, stir until boiling.

Cover; bake 50 min. in mod. oven, 325 degrees to 350 degrees F. or until fork-tender.

Prepare 4 c. hot buttered flaky rice. Line heated 3-qt. casserole with the rice. Fill with chicken. Garnish with a few extra toasted nut meats.

Note: Crisp salted peanuts may be used throughout.

Lemon Bisque: Courtesy Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Add 1/4 c. boiling water to 1 pkg. lemon-flavored gelatin. Stir until dissolved.

Add 1/3 c. strained honey, 1/4 tsp. salt, 3 tbsp. lemon juice and crushed, grated rind 1 lemon. Refrigerate until slightly thickened.

Beat until stiff 1 (14 1/2-oz.) can well chilled evaporated milk. Whip into gelatin mixture.

In 10"x12" pan spread 1/4 c. fine crumbled vanilla wafers. Spoon in gelatin. Top with 1 c. fine vanilla wafer crumbs, additional.

Refrigerate 4 hrs. or until firm.

Cut in squares.

Serve "as is" or with whipped topping. Garnish with a whole nut meat or a maraschino or Bing cherry.

Some Interesting Ways To Remodel Fruitcake

TORONTO (CP) — Fruit cake, cake after the main holidays are is one food that doesn't usually over, she adds. Probably the easiest way to leftover, says Corinne Tierice, use up fruit cake is to make it of ice cream on a slice of fruit into pudding. Place leftover cake in the top of a double boiler over hot water until the cake is moist. But there are ways to use and thoroughly heated. Serve as you would a steamed pudding with hard sauce or hot brandy sauce. The family or company will be sure to gobble up every last crumb of fruit cake if it is made into fruit cake a la mode. This appetizing and attractive dessert is made by placing a large scoop of ice cream on a slice of fruit cake for each serving. Top with sherry butter sauce. To make the sauce combine children. Cut 24 one-inch squares from fruit cake. Melt one-half white sugar and two tablespoons water in a saucepan. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Cool. Add one tsp. lemon juice, one tsp. grated lemon rind, dash of nutmeg and 1/4 cup cooking sherry. Makes 1 1/2 cups sauce. TOO GOOD TO LAST Chocolate fruities are sure to be eaten up in a hurry. They can go on the tea tray, in the lunchbox or be served as a treat to children. Cut 24 one-inch squares from fruit cake. Melt one-half pound of sweet or semi-sweet chocolate in top part of double boiler. Using a sharp-tined fork, dip each cube into melted chocolate. Place on a greased cookie sheet and sprinkle immediately with chopped pecans. Place moist cloth and keep in a refrigerator until chocolate hardens. Some families, of course, prefer cake just the way it is and if it is stored properly it will stay fresh up to one year. For storage up to several wrap carefully in a moisture-proof wrapping and place in a freezer. The cake will keep if the is crammed with fruit, do not attempt to slice too thinly. The secret to easy slicing is to have the cake cold and the knife time before serving, arrange on hot. Refrigerate the cake until it is quite cold. Use a sharp knife and store in a cool place, with a straight edge and a thin blade. Dip the knife in hot water before each cut and slice with a slow sawing motion. The first man to use an air-bag before each cut and slice with a plane over Antarctica was Hubert Wilkins of Britain in 1928.

Not A Dog's Life For U.K. Canines

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON (CP) — Shopping for dogs makes for interesting shopping.

The Christmas gift sections of Britain's pet shops are full of possibilities — ranging from the latest in high-style dog clothes to canine tranquilizers.

Raincoats come in all sorts of colors—soft pastels are all the rage this year—and are made of the best quality plastic. Tartans, naturally, are available for scottie dogs. Matching caps give the pet that "cozy, snug appearance."

Or how about little plastic boots? Ideal for the dog that won't wipe its feet.

For the dog-owner who really cares there are crocodile-leather leashes with milk-lined handles.

Individual dog beds are, of course, necessities, not luxuries and wouldn't excite anybody's pooch.

BOOTIE NECKLACE

But imitation bones would be nice. They are shaped like the real thing and are guaranteed not to chip on the carpet. Or maybe your dog would like having miniature dog booties hang from his neck. They cost only 10 shillings.

In a more practical vein, what could be nicer than a special Christmas dinner for old Rover. "fresh horse meat direct from the importers," is the blaring advertisement of one firm. "All our meat has been passed fit for human consumption and does not therefore need to be cooked or dyed green before sale."

It would obviously be wasted on a color-blind dog.

Then there are those wonderfully comprehensive medicines that cure practically everything in one good-tasting swallow.

One pill, for example, cures ring-shyness, street-shyness, fear of people, loss of weight, poor appetite, loss of hair and paralysis.

Even more remarkable is the ante-natal pill that gives the old dog "excellent physiological care" through the latter stages of pregnancy and at the same time "also cures the owner's anxiety."

London Was Outraged At First Christmas Cards

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Many Londoners were outraged when Sir Henry Cole, a patron of the arts, sent the first Christmas cards in 1843.

The cards depicted a family toasting the recipient. The puritan element of the city said the cards would encourage drunkenness.

London artist John Calcott Horsley was commissioned to produce the first hand-colored cards. Sir Henry ordered 1,000 of them and sold those he did not use for a shilling each.

The following year a few others sent cards and the custom seemed to be catching on mildly. But cost kept the custom to the upper classes and it wasn't until the 1860s, when manufacturers began printing cards on leftover Valentine stock, that sending of Christmas cards became widespread.

The lace borders made it impossible to distinguish a Christmas card from a Valentine card until the message was read. Fringes and tassels became popular during the period and many cards had elegant frames.

MANY HAD CROSSES

The quality of the early cards was generally high. Many were made from 12-color plates and resembled oil paintings. Birds and flowers were favorite subjects and the cross, now associated with Easter, appeared on many cards.

High cost became a problem again in the 1880s and the high-quality cards faltered. As one means of cutting printing costs, "Xmas" was often substituted for the word "Christmas."

The first use of postcards as Christmas greetings was in Germany. Their lower cost made them popular for a time but people soon returned to the original idea of cards enclosed in envelopes.

Many of these early cards, including the controversial one sent by Sir Henry, now are part of the Coutts Hallmark collection of antique cards on exhibit at the National Gallery in Ottawa.

Santa Claus appeared on cards as early as 1860. He was slim, serious and called St. Nicholas. Over the years he became robust and jolly although he has shed a few pounds in recent years.

BELLS ARE POPULAR

Bells, an early Christmas symbol, head the list of favorite greeting card subjects for 1960. Second on the list are poinsettias. Trees, candles and holly are prominent and reproductions of paintings by the old masters and Canadian artists are being used.

Canadians are expected to spend about $9,000,000 on Christmas greetings this year, about one-third of the amount spent on cards.

While Toronto remains the centre of the greeting-card industry in Canada, many interesting designs originate with religious orders in Quebec.

The Benedictine monks of St. Benoit du Lac offer a wide selection, including some modernistic designs. The Benedictine nuns, who have been producing cards for 30 years, have decided not to offer any until a new set can be worked out.

The Sulpician Order of Notre Dame Church and Notre Dame de Bonsecours buy and sell cards displaying the beautiful Montreal cathedral.

Cards are printed from paintings by Mother Nellis at the Convent of the Sacred Heart in Montreal. Many show the Christ child. Other Quebec cards are done by Mrs. Leonie Colagelo of Verdun who uses the name Christiana. Others come from Madeleine Fortin of Beauce.

Turkey for All-But At A Higher Price

By WARREN McDUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Probably as many Canadians as ever will have turkey for their Christmas dinner but in most cases they will have paid up to 10 cents a pound more than last year for it.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that while turkey supply is adequate, and prices are higher everywhere in contrast with last Christmas when over-production drove them down as much as eight cents a pound.

The price variation from province to province is as much as 21 cents, with a low of 49 cents a pound in Saskatchewan and a high of 71 in Newfoundland. If you haven't bought your turkey yet, you can still save as much as eight or nine cents a pound by buying one weighing 18 to 20 pounds or more.

Fears that the higher prices have forced Canadians to turn to other festive birds for the holiday apparently didn't materialize.

"It's tradition," said a spokesman for the British Columbia turkey industry. "People in Canada often will go without something else so they can have a turkey dinner on Christmas." One reason for smaller production this year is that many producers were driven out of operation last year when prices fell. There just wasn't enough profit to make it worthwhile to continue.

While producers have some breathing space this Christmas, some retailers—notably in Manitoba—have shaved profit margins to two or three cents because they are worried about the reaction of customers to the higher prices.

The province - by - province situation:

British Columbia: Retail prices 63 cents for birds up to 18 pounds; 60 for heavier birds. The seven to eight cents higher than last year is due to a drop in production, prices are up six to eight cents at 53 for birds over 20 pounds and 59 for those between 12 and 16. Supermarket chains were prepared for a price war in the event that competitors decided to use turkeys as loss leaders. Saskatchewan: Production down 20 per cent and prices up five to 10 cents at 49 for Grade B and 57 for Grade A. Chicken and duck prices unchanged from last year.

Manitoba: Hen turkeys up 10 cents and tom turkeys up seven with prices around 55 a pound. Production down 25 to 30 per cent.

Ontario: Prices up to 10 cents higher with Toronto markets selling those under 18 pounds at 59 a pound and heavier birds at 51. At Ottawa, where prices are 55 and 59, there is a demand for geese and ducks.

Quebec: Several weeks before Christmas turkeys were 63 cents a pound and there was a possibility the short supply might force them up to 70.

New Brunswick: Supply is plentiful with fresh birds at 69 and frozen ones around 59.

Nova Scotia: Supply is ample with most popular size, eight to 10 pounds, at 63 cents, 10 cents higher than 1959.

Prince Edward Island: With few home-grown turkeys, prices are up about 10 per cent at 57 cents a pound for larger birds and 63 for smaller.

Newfoundland: Turkeys retail at about 71 cents compared with 59 and 61 last year. The province has a quota on turkey imports from the United States and must rely mainly on producers in Ontario and Quebec, a situation that has pushed prices up.

London's West End Now Brightest Retail Jewel

LONDON—London's west end, the busiest retail centre in the whole of the United Kingdom, has once again become a fairyland of brilliant lights and color to mark the advent of the Christmas season. For exactly one month, the wide streets of the west end, with their fabulous shops on either side, will be ablaze with decorations. While the work of putting up the special lighting and decorations started back about the beginning of November, the lights were turned on only on November 2, and officially, the Christmas season had started.

There is very keen competition between the various streets as to which can produce the most effective and magnificent show. This year, as usual, Regent street carries off the palm for originality, color and beauty. The motif of the Regent street decorations is that of the angels singing and making music on the first Christmas morn. Done in brilliant colors, from one end of the street, starting from Piccadilly Circus to Oxford Circus there are hundreds of these angels, some of them holding trumpets, suspended high above the street. Brilliant stars flank the side of the street. And the shops have vied with each other in adding to the effect with their individual decorative patterns, although all of them are in keeping with the main theme.

AT SELFREDGE'S

Oxford street is not far behind Regent street in beauty and color. Huge many-colored stars have been set up on high poles the length of the street, with streamers of colored lights going off to the buildings on either side. Oxford street's stores do a splendid job of decorative lighting. In particular, the huge Selfridge's store, with its broad facade, is a glorious spectacle. On a high parapet, are gaily-lit Christmas trees, and a centre piece of Santa Claus and his sleigh and reindeer. It is worth going to the west end just to see that one store alone.

Bond street, once too dignified to have Christmas decorations, has now fallen in line with the rest of the west end, and has become a dazzling avenue of light at night, instead of a somewhat dingy street.

IN OTHER AREAS

Other sections of the business area in the heart of London are also brilliantly illuminated for the Christmas season. In Knightsbridge, and on the Kensington High street, where some of London's largest department stores are to be found, there are some of its finest decorative efforts. At stores like Harrod's, Barker's Derry and Toms, Pontings and many others, all the ingenuity of decoration designers has been put into play to create a glowing representation of the Christmas theme.

TALLEST PEOPLE

American men now average five-foot-10 inches, equal to Africa's Nilotic tribesman, long known as the world's tallest people.

FIRST RAILWAY

South Africa's first railway was opened to public traffic in February, 1862, some 200 years after the arrival of white settlers.

Dreaming Of Rival To White Christmas Song

LONDON—People in the music business, and particularly the makers of records, are hunting for songs with a Christmas theme to rival the successes of Irving Berlin's "White Christmas" and "Rudolf the Red-Nosed Reindeer." These were tunes which lasted for many Christmas seasons, and nothing to compare with them for popularity has come along since they hit the record platters.

Reviewing the line-up of new songs for this Christmas of 1960 over here in London fails to reveal anything with the catchy nature of "White Christmas." But from the standpoint of appeal to children, there are some which may be capable of following in the red-nosed reindeer's footsteps.

What may be one of the top songs of this Christmas season, because it is being featured by three different recording companies, is a number entitled "Must Be Santa." It is the kind of thing which would be a sure fire hit at the gaily-decorated windows of the shops.

STREETS JAMMED

Going into the heart of the city to view the decorations and illuminations is a favorite pastime of Londoners throughout the whole period when the city is lit up. The London Transport Executive runs special bus tours to take thousands of people nightly through the main decorated areas. On the night of November 26, when the lights were turned on, the west end streets were completely jammed with traffic.

children's parties. It is a jolly question and answer song, with soloist asking the questions, and a chorus of children giving the answers.

Tommy Steel has recorded one version of it, with a group of youngsters from Bermondsey providing the chorus. In Jean Regan's version, the chorus comes from Dr. Barnardo's Home. A third rendering which has made a great record for Christmas is an effort by Alma Coogan. This is expected to be the top-selling Christmas special for this year.

Another Christmas record which is likely to go right to the top in popular favor is "The Virgin Mary," as sung by Lorie Donegan, and to be put out before Christmas by the Eyle Company. The name of Donegan alone could ensure success. In this record, however, he is serious and sings in a perfectly straight, if somewhat skillful fashion. It is a very fine song.

One of the companies which made a success with "Mary's Boy Child" has come out with a new song bearing the compelling title of "Angel and the Stranger."

Lyle Cornell, one of Britain's talented and popular singers provided the voice for this appealing Christmas theme.

There are several others in the Christmas record pipe-line. Adam Faith has made a jolly sort of record that will appeal to children, "Lonely Pup (In a Christmas Shop)".

Some of the old favorites are still being made by new singers. Ella Fitzgerald, top singer for His Master's Voice records, has a record with a new arrangement of the old song, "Jingle Bells." Then on another she has two Christmas carols, and—believe it or not—Berlin's "White Christmas." You just cannot get away from it.

And another that is being highly regarded is Roy Castle's rendition of "Little White Berr," which as might be imagined, is dedicated to the mistletoe.

These are just a few that look like being the song hits of this year's Christmas record season. It remains to be seen whether any of them will have as long a new song bearing the compelling title of "Angel and the Stranger," Christmas prayer.

Delicious Holiday Fillers With Savoury Canned Salmon

For a tasty holiday soup, keyed to the traditional tones of Christmas prepare canned or dried mix green pea soup substituting a little dry sherry or white wine for the water called for. Heat to simmering, then add a little grated lemon rind and one cup of flaked canned salmon and its liquid for every can or package of soup. Simmer until thoroughly heated; serve Bisque Noel piping hot, garnished, if desired, with popcorn. This makes about five servings.

Stuck for a starter? An appetizing holiday menu prelude starts with canned salmon. It's a striking new version of deviled eggs and one of its many assets is its prepare-in-advance factor. For eight servings of Eggs Victor, hard cook four eggs. Peel and slice in half lengthwise. Mash scooped-out yolks, blend in salt and pepper, a little prepared horseradish, and about two tablespoons of chili sauce. Fold in half a cup of flaked canned salmon (one quarter-pound can). Then blend in additional chili sauce or dairy sour cream until mixture is moist and fluffy. Lightly pile into egg white shells. Cover and chill until serving time. Meanwhile blend one-third cup chili sauce into one cup dairy sour cream. Chill. To serve, place a lettuce leaf on each small side plate, place stuffed egg half on top. Top with a little of sour cream-chili mixture. Sprinkle with paprika.

The holiday hostess is never caught short with the arrival of unexpected visitors if her pantry has a good stock of emergency fillers like canned salmon. Here's sticks, a quickie that's long on flavor and appearance, short on preparation time.

Petto Salmon Puffs are a delightful addition to the buffet table or sandwich tray and stand admirably on their own as a snack item. Spread small toast rounds with a well-seasoned mixture of flaked canned salmon, lemon juice and minced parsley. Beat one egg white until stiff, then fold in half a cup of stiff mayonnaise, one tablespoon of lemon juice, three tablespoons of very finely chopped dill pickles and a teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce. Lightly pile a little of the mixture on each salmon round. Slip under the broiler until top is puffed and lightly browned. Serve hot.

The dip'n'dunk routine is a firm fixture of the successful festive food formula. And kudos are the reward of the hostess who comes up with one or two new ideas in the realm of dips. Zippy Salmon Dip is one such, bound to create favorable comment. Into one, four-ounce package of soft cream cheese blend two tablespoons lemon juice, two tablespoons prepared mustard, two teaspoons minced onion, one-eighth teaspoon garlic powder, half a teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and a few drops tabasco sauce. Add sufficient sour cream to lightly moisten mixture, then fold in one cup flaked canned salmon and its liquid. If mixture is still a little stiff, blend in additional sour cream to moisten. Serve with potato chips, pretzels, melba toast rounds, crisp crackers and/or raw carrot sticks. Items like canned salmon. Here's sticks,

Motoring Through Canada This Season Can Be Fun — And Safe

Motoring through Canada's winter wonderland can be as safe as it is exciting if you follow six common sense rules.

1. Accept your responsibility to do all in your power to drive without an accident. Don't blame the weather—be prepared to meet the situation.

2. Get the "feel" of the road by trying the brakes occasionally while driving slowly and away from traffic to find out just how slippery the road is. Always adjust your speed to road and weather conditions.

3. Keep the windshield and windows clear of snow and ice, fog and frost. Be sure headlights, windshield wiper blades and defrosters are in top condition.

4. Be prepared for poor traction. Under any circumstances, be sure your tires have good treads. Snow tires provide added traction. For emergency conditions, carry a set of good tire chains. Chains help you start, move, and stop safely in some severe weather conditions.

5. Pump your brakes to slow down or stop. Jamming them on can lock the wheels and throw you into a dangerous skid.

6. Follow at a safe distance. Keep well back of the vehicle ahead to give yourself more room to stop. On snow and ice your stopping distance increases greatly.

AN ESCAPE

If you're one of the lucky people planning an escape from Northern ice and snow to bask in Southern sunshine, here are some tips for a few transition clothes to carry you from below-freezing temperatures to the land of warmth and leisure. And I say the fewer the better!

Women, instead of taking a warm coat and a light one, why not try an all-seasons coat with a zip-out lining? A handy "extra" to have along is a soft wide jersey stole. It wards off drafts up north and doubles as a pretty evening wrap over your summer gowns. Incidentally, you can keep a pastel-colored stole clean when not in use by folding it and placing it in a plastic bag.

MERRY MENAGERIE

Current government policy of admitting immigrants in good times and limiting the flow in bad times may be altered by immigration act amendments to be proposed at the present session of Parliament. However, no one in Ottawa anticipates any drastic changes.

Immigration Minister Fairclough told the Commons in 1959 that the act is being reviewed to bring about "a new deal in immigration matters."

"Well, well! Banker Jones is going in for gardening!"

Don't get cold feet on the way — which can happen even in the most efficiently heated cars. If you'd rather not tote galoshes, try wearing "bobby socks" which can be slipped off when you leave the car or when the mercury starts to rise.

An old blanket can be a boon both en route and after you arrive—as a lap rug or foot warmer for the non-driver, and as a beach or picnic blanket during your southern holiday.

That drive you take to spend Christmas with family or friends will be easier and more fun if you do a little planning now. Here are a few tips for holiday motor-visits.

First, about the gifts. This is especially important if you take children and if you leave home on Christmas eve. You'll probably want to take things the children can open Christmas morning.

Wrap the gifts now and pack them in a carton. You can slide it into the trunk of the car at the last minute. This will save time and avoid damage that can occur if gifts are tumbled in.

If you make the round trip on Christmas day, the children will probably open their gifts before leaving home. They will want to take some of their own things with them. Let them take small gifts that take little space in the car and that they can enjoy and share at someone else's house.

Second, about the car. You'll probably leave it outside if you go for an overnight visit. If there's a chance of cold weather, be sure the car is ready.

And third, about you. Christmas is wonderful but wearing. Try to do your driving before it gets too late, and avoid the hazards of fatigue.

Your car's battery works extra hard in winter. Take care of it and it will serve you well. Neglect it, and you may be one of the millions of motorists who call for help in cold weather because of electrical failure.

Here are some things smart motorists remember about batteries. The starting load is much heavier when it's cold. Even when the engine's off, the battery may be called on to work the radio, heater blower, cigarette lighter, power windows, horn and lights. According to the experts there are more lights in the average late-model car than in the average home.

WATCH AMMETER With the engine running, your generator must supply current for all these things—plus electricity for the motor and other power equipment.

So keep an eye on the ammeter on your instrument panel. It shows whether or not the battery is being charged by the generator. Normally it should show some "charge" except at very low engine speeds.

When you stop for gasoline, have the service station attendant check the battery. How's the water level? Are the connections firmly anchored and corrosion-free? Does the battery need charging? Do you need a new battery? Any service station dealer will be glad to help you.

This winter, take care of your car's battery and it will take care of you—in any weather.

good, old-fashioned Holiday!

Immigration to Canada May Be Lower in 1961

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration to Canada in 1961 may fall below 100,000 for the first time since 1950 unless a surge in the Canadian economy becomes apparent by early spring.

The movement of immigrants has decreased steadily since 1957 when the flow reached a post-war high of 282,164. The factors responsible for this decline are expected to continue to limit immigration next year.

Immigration soared in 1957 because of a booming Canadian economy in 1956 and the early part of 1957. Immigrants were needed to fill vacant jobs and plenty were available in Britain and Europe.

The picture now has changed. The Canadian economy has levelled out and the number of workers exceeds available jobs. In addition, prosperity has returned to Europe and Europeans are not interested in migrating.

These conditions — along with publicity abroad about unemployment in Canada—reduced immigration in 1959 to 106,328. The flow this year is expected to be about the same or perhaps less.

SEE LITTLE CHANGE

Government officials do not anticipate any economic reverses in Europe which would encourage migration in 1961. And the prospect of any immediate surge in the Canadian economy creating a need for immigrants in large numbers appears remote.

During 1961 the government is expected to continue to restrict admission of unskilled workers, the class making up the bulk of Canada's unemployed. However, the immigration department will continue to seek immigrants with skills and professions and those with funds who want to establish small businesses or own or rent farms.

Barriers preventing the arrival of unskilled immigrants in winter will not be lifted next spring unless the government is convinced this will not add to the unemployment problem.

"We will be lucky if we get as many immigrants in 1961 as we expect will arrive this year," one government economist said.

Federal immigration policy is to limit the annual flow of newcomers to the immediate absorptive capacity of the economy. Both the present Progressive Conservative government and the former Liberal administration have restricted immigration during periods of high unemployment.

Neither has accepted the theory that immigrants help to create employment through the purchase of homes, farms, businesses and consumer goods.

However, it's not possible to turn the immigration tap on and off on an annual basis. It takes months of administrative work—even if immigrants are needed and are available—to restart a flow after a period of restriction.

The 1960 immigration year ended on both sour and happy notes.

The 2,000,000th post-war immigrant—a 16-year-old Danish girl—arrived at Quebec city Dec. 6 by ship. However, hundreds of immigrants began returning home because they couldn't get steady jobs.

"Canada has ceased to be an immigrant's country," said 33-year-old Charles Robertson, a machine fitter returning to Dundee, Scotland.

Current government policy of admitting immigrants in good times and limiting the flow in bad times may be altered by immigration act amendments to be proposed at the present session of Parliament. However, no one in Ottawa anticipates any drastic changes.

Immigration Minister Fairclough told the Commons in 1959 that the act is being reviewed to bring about "a new deal in immigration matters."

Canadian Children Get Out of Yule Space Race

Canadian children in their year's record retail volume of choice of Christmas toys seem to be no longer influenced by the massive propaganda about space weapons and satellites. Although they live in an age in which television and other forms of communication bring to their eyes the wonders of space exploration, toys with this theme are in relatively little demand. "Last year was space, space, space," said a Winnipeg department store manager. "But now plastic toys and books are going faster."

Rockets and space ships are not doing as well in Canada as in the United States, said a spokesman for a big Montreal store. "It certainly appears that children in Canada, judging by their tastes in toys, are not at all war-minded."

The manager of a Vancouver department store put it this way: "The television craze is over and the kids are back to the stage where they want to do something. . . . It's nothing to see a mother pick up $75 worth of books this year, unheard of two years ago."

There are few Canadian-made space toys. Spokesmen for the toy industry say this is because of high costs of tooling up for the limited market and because they regard Canadian youngsters as conservative in their tastes.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press showed a preference for longtime favorites such as dump trucks, electric trains, battery-powered toys and dolls. They are also leaning more toward such educational toys as blackboards, chemistry sets, books and do-it-yourself kits.

Toy sales were reported slow during the early part of December but picked up during the pre-Christmas rush and the industry is hopeful of surpassing last

Oslo Sends London 14th Christmas Tree Present

LONDON — For the 14th successive year, the people of Oslo, Norway, have sent a huge Christmas tree to London for erection in Trafalgar Square. This tree is sent as a token of Oslo's gratitude to the people of Britain. It has made the square the Christmas rendezvous of countless thousands of Londoners and visitors.

While the people of London know that the tree comes from Oslo as a gift from the people of that Norwegian city, very few people knew, until now, that the City of Oslo not only has provided the tree and has paid for its transport to London, but also paid for illuminating it during the festive season. At the time the gift was first made, it was understood that this token of friendship would cost the recipients nothing. Oslo has always honored this undertaking.

This interesting fact came to light when it was revealed that the London Electricity Board this year was putting an increased tariff into effect which would have trebled the cost to the city of Oslo of the power used in illumination. The civic authorities there had received no warning regarding this increase until a few days ago. While they would have met the higher demand with good grace, the British press opened up on the subject, pointed to the fact that the donors of the tree had not received sufficient advance notice of the increased rate.

The London Electricity Board felt the point was well taken, and has decided to charge only twopence a unit, instead of the sixpence originally fixed as the charge.

COST $1,000

Last year, the city of Oslo paid almost exactly $1,000 to have the tree cut, shipped to London and erected. Of this amount, the cost of electricity was $175. At the new rate, the electricity would have cost $325.

A warning has now been given, however, that a higher rate will be in effect next year.

Each year the tree, usually from 65 to 75 feet in height, is cut down in a forest near Oslo.

CHRISTMAS TRADE FIGURES BOOSTED IN LAST MINUTE

A last-minute shopping spurt in Kelowna may push up this year's Christmas trading statistics to a figure comparable with last year's, according to a snap survey of city traders.

Traders felt earlier that the Yule shopping rush would be later and less than in 1959.

But signs yesterday and today indicated that some families had been holding off in buying their presents.
